Business Conditions In S. A. Show Healthy Increase

MERCHANTS REPORT GAIN FOR SEASON

Holiday Shopping Starts Earlier; Year's Business Exceeds 1934

By Malcolm Bostwick

WHATEVER the cause, things are "hooking up" in Santa Ana and that isn't idle guessing. Sales in a variety of businesses for 1935, with the exception of one of two lines, topped all 1934 sales and the first half of December, this year, has out-run last year's first half of December by a substantial margin on the sales register.

The automobile business is highest in improvement over last year, with construction business running close behind. Percentage comparisons were obtained from dozens of local business firms, picked at random in an effort to obtain the true picture. The picture is a pleasant one.

Postoffice records, themselves a meter upon which business conditions can be read quite accurately, especially at this time of year, reveal that the first 15 days of December this year registered $619,20 more business than the first 15 days of December, 1934. The 1935 figure is $9085.89; the 1934, $8446.69. The months of October and November with the first 15 days of December added, registered $36,432.92 in business at the postoffice in 1935. The same period this year showed a figure of $38,873.66. Last year's total to December 15 was $141,205.17, while for this year it was $152,067.63, an increase of $10,862.46.

Construction men estimated construction, lumber sales, etc. were running as much as 75 to 200 per cent above last year's figure, while five automobile dealers declared their orders for cars this year exceeded those of last year by 100 to 250 per cent. One dealer in expensive automobiles remarked: "You would certainly be surprised at the number of these cars which are being offered as Christmas presents this year. Of course, the fact that many 1935 model cars were brought out several months earlier than usual accounts for the exceptional increase in orders taken these days as compared with last year." Another automobile man declared his increases this year were about 35 or 40 per cent, "but in 1934, we didn't do so badly." Another reported December, this year, showing his greatest sales in his history.

Only the beauty parlor and florist businesses reported "about the same," but their owners added that additional competition in such businesses had kept down the sales for any particular one.

Other business men and women reported as follows, each quotation from a different merchant:

Radio—"November doubled over this year; December 75 percent over last year." Plumbing—"Good showing." "About 50 percent increase over last season." "Over double." Men's clothes—"Buy earlier than usual; 35 percent ahead of last year, for holiday season, as well as for the year." "All 1935 better, a third better." "Fifty percent to December 1; too busy to figure it this month."

DENIES RUMOR

Ted Craig, speaker of the state assembly, who today vigorously denied rumors to the effect that he would resign to accept a position for a public utility group.

CRAIG DENIES HE WILL QUIT LEGISLATURE

RUMORS that Ted Craig, Brea speaker of the state assembly, plans to resign and accept a position as legislative council for a public utility group, were spiked today by Craig himself.

"I will not resign," Craig told The Register today. "I was elected for a two-year term and intend to complete the term of office for which I was elected."

"Whether I run again for the assembly next time, or for the senate or do not run at all, is entirely in the future. I have had several jobs offered me but have accepted none of them nor do I intend to accept such offers while I am serving the people of my district."

For several weeks the rumor has been circulated that Craig does not intend to complete his term, having accepted the offer of large public utility corporation. This rumor, Craig said today, "is just a newspaper story."

Other rumors have it that Craig plans to seek the toga of State Sen. Nelson T. Edwards of Orange, who has announced that he does not intend to run for reelection at the next election.

Craig said today that whether or not he seeks this higher state post depends, entirely upon Senator Edwards and other personal factors.

BRITISH CABINET IN EMERGENCY SESSION

HIGH RELIEF COSTS HIT BY HOOVER

Four Point Program Offered by Ex-President to Prevent Debacle

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 17.—Former President Herbert Hoover predicted last night in a frontal attack on President Roosevelt that the United States would spend its way through inflation to desperation unless administration policies are reversed.

He forecast a national debt by July of 32 or 33 billion dollars.

Speaking to 1000 members and guests of the John Marshall Republican club in an avowed reply to President Roosevelt's recent address in Atlanta, Hoover said that "perhaps more than any other living person I can sympathize with the president and his burdens."

He said he could agree with some specific acts of the president but condemned his general policy "upon profound principles of human liberty." He appealed indirectly to "true" liberals of the Democratic party to align themselves with him on that basis.

Offers Program

To prevent the debacle he said must follow "wastes and follies" of the New Deal, he proposed a program of four points:

"1. Stop these wasteful federal public works projects; confine them to projects which meet the needs of the nation.

"2. Decentralize the administration of all other forms of relief.

War Crisis Policy Will Be Decided

French British Peace Plan is Held to Be Alternative to War

LONDON, Dec. 17.—The cabinet met in emergency session today to decide its policy in the Italian-Ethiopian crisis.

This policy entails success in three problems:

1.—To achieve unity in the cabinet itself.

2.—To decide on the manner of the government's defense when the house of commons debates Thursday the French-British proposals for settlement of the Italian-Ethiopian war.

3.—Great Britain's future course as regards the Italian-Ethiopian crisis, its relations with France and Italy, and its activities in the league of nations.

Belief was growing that because

ETHIOPIANS OPEN ATTACK ON ITALIANS

Sweeping Defeat of Mussolini's Forces Reported in Dispatches

ROME, Dec. 17.—Italian outposts on the northern Ethiopian front have been attacked and defeated by an overwhelming superior Ethiopian force, a communique disclosed today.

Desperate fighting is continuing. So far four Italian officers, nine white soldiers and several score of Eritrean native troops in the Italian forces are known to have been killed, and three officers have been wounded.

It was indicated that the engagement might prove the most important so far on the northern front.

The Ethiopians, 3000 strong, were believed to be of the warriors of the fierce Ras Siyoum, commanding the most advanced Ethiopian forces on the northern front. He has been restrained by the emperor only with difficulty from attacking the Italians.

The engagement occurred on the Takaze river, 33 miles west northwest of Makale, which is the peak of the Italian front line, on the main caravan route back to Addis. The route is the line of communication to the front and has been harassed constantly by Ethiopian guerrillas.

The Ethiopians, sweeping down by surprise on the Italian outposts, crossed the Takaze river and drove the Italians back 12-15 miles to the Dmbequina Pass, 37 miles southwest of Aksum.

It was indicated that fighting continued intensely through that part of the Scire region of Tigre province.

JAPAN REJECTS F.D.R. PROPOSAL FOR NAVAL CUT

LONDON, Dec. 17.—Popular apprehension in Japan over the possibility of a naval war with the United States was described candidly today by Admiral Osami Nagano, chief Japanese delegate to the naval conference.

Nagano made his statement at a private conference between the Japanese and United States delegation at Claridge's hotel. He made it clear that because of the fear of the Japanese people for their safety in event of a naval attack, Japan must reject President Roosevelt's suggestion for a general 20 per cent reduction in the strength of all navies.

Japan, Nagano said, believes that the proposed cut would maintain existing ratios—5 for Britain and the United States and 3 for Japan—and cause continued Japanese uneasiness over the superior strength of the United States.

Norman H. Davis, chief United States delegate, reported that acceptance of Japan's proposal for a navy equal to that of the United States would, in Washington's opinion, give Japan a substantial strategic advantage, because with an equal navy, Japan would enjoy the benefit of home bases in the Pacific.

Davis also said the United States

'WOMAN IN RED' IN FEAR FOR HER LIFE

BUDAPEST, Dec. 17.—Mrs. Anna Sage, the "woman in red" who led John Dillinger into a Chicago death trap set by U. S. federal agents, still lives in mortal terror that Dillinger's friends will hunt her down and kill her.

"Don't tell where I am living," she implored Hungarian newspapermen who traced her to the remote village where she is living after her deportation from the United States.

She said she received $15,000 for her part in sending Dillinger to his death.

Bank Of America Pays $100,000 Back Taxes

DELINQUENT taxes amounting to approximately $100,000 were paid yesterday by the Bank of America to the City of San Clemente and to the state and county on property in San Clemente.

The money was turned over to the beneficial trust controlling the large property holdings in the Spanish Village, for use in payment of the delinquent taxes. Trustees of the fund, today, paid to the city of San Clemente $79,289.75 in delinquent city taxes and approximately $16,000 in delinquent state and county taxes.

Following payment of all delinquent taxes due the city on property held in beneficial trust by the bank, Mayor A. T. Smith announced that all municipal bills would be paid immediately and the city's credit be re-established. He also announced a program of municipal improvement and expansion that will include street paving and planting of more ornamental trees.

In turning over the money to the trust for payment of taxes, Tom Walker, assistant vice president of the bank, said that several years ago the bank advanced to the "city's highly respected developer," money necessary for the installation of city improvements which had bade San Clemente one of the most beautiful cities in Southern California.

Due to the depression and other circumstances beyond control, the developer experienced set-backs that made it necessary, for the protection of beneficiaries and depositors, whose money had been loaned, for the bank to become the unwilling successor to interests of the developer of approximately 52 per cent of the property in the trust.

Mayor Smith and the entire city council, upon receipt of the money, commiserated the bank upon being able to sever legal red tape that for a time threatened to halt the payment of the back taxes.

BULLETIN

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 17.—Beautiful Thelma Todd suffered no heart attack nor was she intoxicated when she died in a garage near her home last Sunday, it was revealed today by a "progress report" at an autopsy upon her body.

"There were several things to indicate that Miss Todd's heart was functioning normally," said Dr. Wagner. "When she slumped over the wheel of her car, she struck her nose and it bled, which indicated the heart was functioning at the time death struck and had not been stilled by an attack due to organic weakness."

ENDS LIFE BY BETTING RINGS HURLING SELF UNDER TRAIN BY GRAND JURY

BELIEVED to have taken his own life over loss of health and sweetheart, Carmen Mosqueda, 23-year-old Mexican, of 1861 West Eighth street, Santa Ana, was discovered early today near the Santa Ana river bridge crossing of the Southern Pacific railroad.

Mosqueda, who had been an inmate of the tubercular ward of the county hospital, since April 14, of this year, was mangled beneath the wheels of the 3:30 a. m. Santa Ana-bound Southern Pacific freight train, according to Deputy Sheriff Merle Deau and Bob Steinberger, who investigated.

While the coroner's inquest is still pending, the officers declared that every indication pointed to suicide and it was believed Mosqueda, who left several letters to his sweetheart and family, deliberately hurled himself between two cars of the train. His body was horribly mutilated.

TOWNSEND PLAN IS ISSUE AT ELECTION

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Dec. 17.—The vote-appeal of the Townsend old-age pension plan received its first major test today as the third district electorate of Michigan balloted for a congressional candidate.

Although the candidates are members of the two old-line parties, they have made an issue of the plan that provides $200 monthly for all persons over 60 years of age. They are Vernon W. Main, the Republican who supported the Townsend plan, and Howard Cavanaugh, the Democrat who opposed it.

The election is to determine which man will fill the vacant seat of the late Rep. Henry M. Kimball, a Republican. Republican state leaders made last minute efforts to "soft-pedal" the Townsend issue.

CONFIDENCE VOTED IN PREMIER LAVAL

PARIS, Dec. 17.—Premier Pierre Laval, declaring to the chamber of deputies that the much-attacked Anglo-French peace plan was a desperate expedient to prevent the Ethiopian war from spreading to Europe, won a vote of confidence today on his policy.

The vote was on an opposition demand for immediate debate on the peace plan. The government won by 306 to 252. Laval insisted that the debate be held on December 27 and demanded a vote of confidence.

He said he would refuse to go to Geneva under the "humiliating conditions" which would result from an immediate debate on foreign policy.

BOMB EXPLODED IN ARMY HEAD'S HOME

TIENSIN, China, Dec. 17.—A bomb exploded today in a house near the residence of Maj. Gen. Hayao, commanding the Japanese army in China. Three Chinese were injured critically.

The house had been long vacant. It was recently rented. The Chinese injured were there to clean it up. While they were sweeping, a package containing the bomb exploded.

There was no explanation. Japanese consular police instructed Japanese newspapermen to minimize the incident and urged them to report the explosion was due to spontaneous combustion—admitting privately at the same time that they knew it was a bomb.

SALVATION ARMY CHRISTMAS BASKET FUND NOW OVER $250

FOURTEEN kind hearted residents of Santa Ana sent in contributions to the Salvation Army-Register Christmas Basket Fund during the past 24 hours, bringing the total fund up to $264 at noon today.

Donations during the 24-hour period were made by the Motion Picture Operators Union, Mrs. T. J. Neas, W. C. Young, Mrs. Mary Fairbanks, D. McKeith, Dr. W. A. Harris, Orange County Auto Parts, Dr. D. A. Harwood, Carl C. Cowles, Dr. R. C. Harris, Morris Cain, Dr. Chad M. Harwood, L. W. Blodgett and Mrs. David E. Davis.

These contributions will be of great assistance in filling the more than 400 Christmas baskets which will be distributed by the Salvation Army the afternoon before Christmas to widows with dependent children and families in desperate circumstances through the fault of their own—that is, the 400 baskets will be given out if enough money is sent in.

More than 300 applications for aid at Christmas time have been received at the Salvation Army

MERCY KILLER IN NOT GUILTY PLEA

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Dec. 17.—Marie Simone Sevigny, unregistered nurse and self-styled "mercy killer," whispered in almost inaudible plea of "not guilty" to a murder charge today and then swooned into the arms of a police matron.

While a crowd waited expectantly in an adjacent courtroom, the 26-year-old brunette nurse, pale and listless after hours of questioning, was arraigned in a small anteroom as she sat on a couch beside the matron.

Court Clerk Henry A. Roberge ordered Miss Sevigny held without bail for the hearing December 27 on a charge that she murdered with poison Mrs. J. Valmore Normandin, wife of a Rhode Island politician, to put her "out of her suffering."

ASK EXTENSION IN PLEA FROM ARIZONA

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Dec. 17.—A request for more time in which to answer a new attack by Arizona on the Colorado river pact was decided on here late yesterday by representatives of the six states involved in the agreement.

The delegates, meeting here in a conference called by Gov. Henry H. Blood of Utah, tentatively agreed to ask the supreme court to grant an extension of time in answering Arizona's suit. Arizona in its latest action is seeking more water from the Colorado than granted by the pact.

It was reported unofficially that Arizona would not oppose the request for additional time.

LEROY DRAKE GETS LIFE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17.—Leroy Drake, 19, so-called "bright boy" today was sentenced to a life term in San Quentin prison on his guilty plea to the poison murders of his elderly aunt and uncle.

The youth was sentenced by Superior Judge Joseph Vickers before whom he pleaded guilty several days ago to a charge that he placed poison in the breakfast coffee of Henry and Nellie Steinhuer, Bos Long Beach, Cal. The youth lived with his two relatives, who lavished him with favors. He watched them slump dead at the table, then dumped their bodies into the ocean.

ETHIOPIANS KILLOGG AND OPEN ATTACK BURKE DEBATE ON ITALIANS WATER BONDS

News of the fighting came in communique No. 72 of the war, which said:

"Marshal (Pier) Badoglio (commander in chief) telegraphs that strong enemy forces estimated at 2000 attacked our outposts along the river Takaze near Mai-Tim-chet. Our Eritrean bands after desperate resistance retreated to the Demberguina pass.

"At the same time another troop of armed Ethiopians crossed the river to effect an encircling operation in the Sore zone, whose population was submitted to us.

"The enemy's operations gave rise to a battle which is still in progress, in which our aviation and detachments armed with tanks are participating actively.

"In the first clashes we lost four officers and nine soldiers. Three officers were wounded. Losses of our Eritreans amount to several scores killed or wounded. Enemy losses are not yet ascertained but are believed to be considerable."

He exhibited his recent penchant for telling phrases with a prediction that 'after the Roosevelt administration's alphabetical agencies have been buried their spirit will live on in Iowa's'."

Much of his "debate" with President Roosevelt was a defense of his own administration against the president's reminiscence in Atlanta of conditions when he took office in March, 1933.

The panic that closed every bank in the country on Mr. Roosevelt's inauguration day was caused by fear of the incoming administration Hoover said.

"What happened on March 3, 1933, was an induced hysteria of bank depositors. I saw no headlines that the farmer had ceased to till the fields. Most of you did not detect that the delivery of food to your doors had stopped. . . . We still had to jump out of the way of 25,000,000 automobiles. . . . And the supreme court seems functioning yet."

"The truth is that the world wide depression was turned in June-July, 1932, all over the world. That was before the election of the New Deal. That turning was aided by the measures of our Republican government."

Attacking the proposed $6,600,000 flood control bond issue on the grounds that the plan under which it is to be constructed is wasteful, that the people have never had a chance to express themselves and that to approve the project is a vote of approval for actions of the board of supervisors, J. F. Burke, last night debated George Kellogg at Laguna Beach.

Kellogg, Placencia citrus grower and ardent worker for the bond proposal, defended the project on the grounds that through completion of the project 100,000 acres of land, now considered non-productive, could be brought under cultivation. He also declared that the federal grant of $6,274,000 will not be available after December 20 and whether Orange county obtains the grant or lets it go it will have to pay its share of the public works fund allocated to California.

During his 20 minute talk against the bonds Burke outlined his opposition to the proposed bond issue in part as follows:

"The reasons I shall vote against the bonds are the following: (1) Because we need to conserve money to get water, and this proposition squanders our resources. (2) Because it should be and can be carried on on a business basis and get federal money. (3) Because the board of supervisors never gave the people a chance to express themselves. A modified plan was drawn up, as per their request, and it was never presented to the government engineers. (4) Because they refused to make cuts in the bonds when advised by all to do so. (5) Because I believe the people and not the supervisors should rule this county. (6) Because a vote for the bonds would be a vote of approval of the board of supervisors, and we should not vindicate them.

We should not give the supervisors this vote of approval because they have increased the expenditures of the county this year over last year by $174,000. They have used politics in the selection of officials, do business behind closed doors, and the average man has no chance at their hands.

Another reason I shall vote against the bonds is because they cannot be defended without deceit and misrepresentation such as in the following instances: (1) The flood damage of 1916 has been exaggerated. The proponents have claimed it did $1,800,000 damage, whereas a report by Assessor Sleepy and J. L. McBride, Santa Ana city engineer, at that time, declared the damage was $500,500; (2) The proponents have exaggerated the number of unemployed to be employed and also the wages to be paid them. (3) In the campaign on the election October 4, they declared that the government had approved the granting of this money for the project, whereas the facts are that it was not done until October 25. (4) They claim 40,000 acre feet of water will be conserved annually, but this is on an average, and you can't raise oranges on an average. (5) At first they stated that all expenditures were to be in charge of government engineers, but upon investigation this was found to be not true.

"Another reason this project should be defeated and I will so vote, is because the supervisors have raised our taxes 2100 percent while the population of the county was increasing 300 percent."

In his talk Kellogg said that it was up to the voter to determine which argument is based upon facts and which has its foundation on innuendo, thoughts and beliefs. He quoted from the Finkle-Rowe support submitted to the Irvine company in which those engineers said: "Assuming that the water will all be conserved as proposed by the Orange County Flood Control District this will give the Irvine company an increased seasonal supply of 24,480 acre feet of water and to other overlying land owners $2,212 acre feet."

"This is of course far more than can be obtained from the basin in the way of a water supply at the present time, as the waste into the ocean is now very great during the capital storm periods. As we have previously informed you the basin is now very much overdrawn and facing total extinction."

Kellogg also quoted the report as saying "Under control and conservation of flood waters in Orange county by consulting engineers Etcheverry, Means and Elliott the following facts were determined—the average seasonal waste into the ocean, even though the high dam is constructed will still average 4450 acre feet each season."

He asked "Why does Irvine want the lower dam and a bigger hole?" He also charged that Irvine wants either no dam and the importation of water from the Metropolitan Water District or Moser river, or: No dam in Santa Ana canyon at present.

"If he has to have a dam he wants it to be lower than the one planned so that the flood water flow in the river would be greater and more would escape into the ocean and Mr. Irvine wanted a bigger hole in the dam than the engineers have recommended," he declared.

This, according to Kellogg was because if there is a greater flow into the river there will be more water for impounding in a dam that he proposes for the head of Newport bay.

POLICE HUNT FOR SOURCE OF 'GHOST CALL'

by March 5, and live." He was furnished apartment. It is at the rear of a hillside apartment occupied by West.

Body Examined County Autopsy Surgeon A. F. Wagner, cooperating with police, continued his examination of the star's body at the morgue. His first action today was an examination of the stomach to determine if Miss Todd might have been poisoned. The heart, liver and brain later will be examined to test police theories of possible alcoholism, or a possible heart ailment.

While the autopsy and chemical analysis progressed, Coroner Frank A. Nance said he would hold an inquest regardless of Dr. Wagner's investigation.

"The inquest will await completion of the autopsy," Nance said, "but I feel that an inquest should be held to clear up several angles of the case, as to the probable time of Miss Todd's death and the circumstances under which her body was discovered."

The body was found Monday morning by May Whitehead, Miss Todd's Negro maid.

One angle under police scrutiny was the possibility some Hollywood wit—a guest at the Ford cocktail party—placed the "ghost call" to Mrs. Ford on an extension line when Mr. Ford was disappointed at the failure of popular Miss Todd to arrive.

The hostess admitted she was so enthused after talking to "Thelma" that she announced to her guests:

"Well, the party can start officially. Thelma will be right over."

Sure of Voice Mrs. Ford, however, said she was sure it was Miss Todd's voice—that she had talked to her "a hundred times or more."

Reports that Miss Todd had received a new series of extortion notes recently today led authorities to make a check of threats against the actress.

The dimpled, blonde comedienne had been bothered by extortionists for more than a year and for a time employed a police guard at her Santa Monica home.

Some of the notes threatened to "wreck that Santa Monica cafe of yours" while others said "our boys will lay you out."

Several months ago two men were arrested in New York on charges of sending threatening notes to the actress. Harry Schmanski, janitor, pleaded not guilty to the charges and was released on bond.

Edward Chiffert was reported to have admitted writing notes to her but said he wrote the letters because he was in love with Miss Todd.

The first note she received was mailed in San Francisco during August, 1934. It demanded $10,000 and was signed with a crude drawing of an ace of spades. A second note with a similar demand was received in November 1934.

declaring he could see no reason why he should be chosen as a "go between" in an extortion demand.

Similar threats were contained in other letters to the actress and Lyman. One note told Lyman to play a certain tune over the radio as an acknowledgment he had received the note. He played the piece but heard nothing further.

Schmanski was arrested by federal agents who suspected him of having written threatening letters to Miss Todd. He pleaded not guilty and was released on bond to await trial.

About six weeks ago Chiffert was arrested in New York after he had telephoned a newspaper and reportedly boasted he was the author of the Todd letters. When taken into custody Chiffert said he wrote letters to the actress because he was in love with her. He was reported awaiting a sanity hearing.

Police officials say they would like to clear up circumstances of Miss Todd's arrival at her cafe from the Trocadero, where she was guest of honor at a film party given by Stanley Lupino, British actor.

She was driven to the beach location of her cafe-apartment by Ernest Peters, auto livery chauffeur, frequently hired by the actress when she went to parties alone.

Peters said he left her at the door of her cafe.

West told police he locked the cafe doors at 2 a. m. Miss Todd had no key to her apartment.

Police believe she made her way up the steep incline to the West garage where she kept her machine.

One theory is that she entered the garage—perhaps started the motor to warm herself against a cold wind blowing off the ocean. The ignition still was turned on when police arrived at the death scene. The fact that but little gasoline was used indicated the motor throttled down and stopped within a short time. The garage doors were partially closed.

Captain Wallis said the exact time of Miss Todd's death was of utmost importance in the investigation. Dr. Wagner, when asked for an opinion, said it would be difficult to determine from the body whether death occurred 18 hours or more before it was found. He pointed out that the atmosphere was very cold on the ocean front at night.

Meanwhile the report that the grand jury was seeking to track down race-track betting indicated that the investigating body was getting still farther afield from the 30-day adjournment goal, urged upon the grand jurors by Judge James L. Allen when he swore them into service.

Investigation of the county recorder's office and other matters outside of the customary routine inspection of public records, soon blasted prospects for such an early adjournment, and with a race track gambling probe in view, the prospect was further diminished.

The two delegations failed to reach any agreement on allotment of tonnage.

WAR CRISIS IS DISCUSSED IN CABINET MEET

of the urgent gravity of the crisis Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin might reveal to parliament Thursday some of the reasons which impelled him to approve the "peace" plan worked out by Sir Samuel Hoare and Premier Pierre Laval.

Well informed quarters reported today that the French-British peace plan seemed to the government the alternative to war with Italy. Many believe that Baldwin will say this Thursday.

The anti-British campaign in the Italian press made it inadvisable for the British fleet to visit Italian ports during its Mediterranean maneuvers, Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin told the house of commons today.

He informed J. C. Wedgwood, Laborite, who asked why the fleet was congregated at Alexandria:

"It was originally planned that the fleet should leave Malta on Aug. 28 to visit ports in the eastern Mediterranean, including a number of Italian ports, but in view of the hostile press campaign against this country, it became clear that visits to Italian ports would be inopportune."

"Therefore, the cruise was confined to the Mediterranean. It has been necessary for a large proportion of the fleet to remain at Alexandria because it is the only port capable of accommodating a large number of ships under winter conditions."

"The naval squadrons, however, made periodical short cruises to neighboring waters."

His statement was greeted with derisive laughter.

Officers Dean and Steimberger reported, after investigating his footprints. Then, apparently, he jumped between the cars and was instantly killed. The body, which was dragged 324 feet, was discovered early this morning by C. E. Morris, section foreman for the Southern Pacific railroad. None of the train crew knew of the death. Mosqueda's body was removed to Gillogly's Funeral home, Orange, where Coroner Earl Abbey will conduct an inquest.

Assure Water Conservation Stop Flood Menace—Save $500,000 a Year

FLOOD CONTROL will save 40,000 acre feet of water annually (a $500,000 yearly cash saving).

Our Federal Government will contribute $6,574,000 of the total moneys needed as an outright gift. It will never have to be repaid. To receive this gift, the voters, on December 19th, must approve this issue to raise the necessary additional sum of $6,620,000 to complete the $13,194,000 needed.

Flood Control is a vital need. It will have to come sooner or later. Now you can get it at half what you'll have to pay later on.

And remember this: Every dollar will be expended under the direct supervision of the U. S. Army Engineers, and must be accounted for to the Federal Government.

With All My Love

by Mary Raymond Copyright NEA 1935

BEGIN HERE TODAY

After the death of her parents, lovely DANA WESTBROOK comes from abroad to make her home with her grandmother, MRS. WILLIAM CAMERON.

Dana's half-sister, NANCY WALLACE, resents Dana's coming. Mrs. Cameron is elated when rich RONALD MOORE falls in love with her granddaughter. Dana, meanwhile, has become attracted to DR. SCOTT STANLEY.

Nancy who masks her love for Ronald behind an antagonistic attitude, unhappily watches his love for Dana deepen. Just as anxiously, PAULA LONG watches Scott Stanley's interest in Dana increase. Dana and Scott decide to marry. Mrs. Cameron gloomily predicts the marriage will not last. Paula is torn by an emotional storm over the news that Scott has married Dana.

With recovered poise, Paula becomes a friend of Dana's and is a constant visitor at her apartment. Dana meets domestic difficulties gallantly, and resents the intrusion of her grandmother that Scott is not able to take care of her.

CHAPTER XXIII

Dana could manage without new clothes, but she decided something really must be done about Scott's shabby suits. Everyone knew a man was as successful as he looked.

When it became apparent that Scott's opposition to this view could not be shaken Dana resorted to subtlety. His birthday was to roll around before long. How wonderful it would be to present him with a beautifully tailored suit!

There was still $30 left of the money Aunt Ellen had given her. Dana had put it away, thinking an emergency might arise when a little cash would help greatly.

Scott's suit was an emergency. In the following weeks, Dana skimped and contrived to make tempting dishes from left-overs without Scott suspecting that a small part of the household fund every day was finding its way into her trunk.

Ten days before his birthday Dana carried one of Scott's old suits to a leading tailor's shop. "Oh, yes, we can make the suit from the measurements of this one," the tailor said, spreading out his hands in bewilderment, "but how could I know this is a perfect fit for him?"

"It looks fine on him," Dana explained, "only it is old, as you see. Besides, if I called my husband for a fitting you would never make the suit."

"Very well. We make it—this way." The tailor had fallen a victim to Dana's charms. He added, "If it doesn't fit, we'll alter it without any extra charge."

On the way to the street car Dana passed several stores and noted their window displays. Some of them were gorgeous.

That same afternoon Paula went to Scott's office. The girl at the desk knew Paula by sight. She was thinking Miss Long did not look at all well. Now and then the girl at the desk glanced up to see Paula's eyes moving restlessly about, darting from one picture to another, from one to another of the pictures on the wall.

A pretty girl sat on one of the red-backed sofas, contentedly reading while she waited. Her husband sat beside her. Occasionally she called his attention to a picture or something she had read and they would laugh together. Then the girl would hunch her shoulder nearer his. The signs of being happily married were apparent to the observing Miss Lee.

In another chair, an old lady dozed. In another, a man held his small son, using all his resources to keep the youngster quiet until his mother returned.

Miss Long was the only person in the room who wasn't occupied, who was restless and unhappy looking.

"Not married and miserable," Miss Lee guessed shrewdly, her eyes dropped with satisfaction to the small diamond she wore on the third finger of her left hand.

Soon Miss Lee would be leaving Dr. Stanley. In a way, she would be sorry. He was a really nice fellow, though he couldn't pay much. He was getting more patients all the time, but not all of them were paying patients.

Miss Lee carried the slip of paper on which Paula's name was written, to Scott.

He frowned a little. "Show Miss Long in," he said.

Paula entered and sat down, smiling a little uncertainly. "Well, Dr. Stanley? I'm here as a patient."

"Ridiculous. You're looking fit." "Not ridiculous at all, Scott," Paula said. "It's about those headaches of mine."

"Pretty bad ones?" "They're devastating. I don't think I've ever told you how really fearful they are. I'm here, not to chat, but as a bona fide paying patient."

Scott said, "That's absurd. But let's hear some symptoms."

"If you won't promise to send me a bill I'll go somewhere else. I'll go to Dr. Brownleaf. Paula threatened. "It may be necessary to have professional advice every now and then, and I've decided you're the best doctor in town. So why shouldn't I come here?"

Scott thought soberly. "It would not do for Paula to get started with Brownleaf." It was general ally known in the profession that Brownleaf was not to be trusted. Drawing out periods of treatment, assuming a portentous air over minor illnesses to feather his cap in the end. Doubling and tripling charges.

"All right. Have it your way," Scott said.

"By the way, I saw Dana a moment ago."

"Dana—where?" Scott asked, the eager note in his voice that always marked any reference to his wife.

"Downtown. She was staring at Burger-Goodiet's new window display. At a simply lovely new blue chiffon."

"Was she?" Scott could picture Dana with a sudden wistfulness in her face, looking at a lovely frock she felt she couldn't afford to own. The thought tore at his heart.

Paula asked herself why she invited such torment? Seeing Scott, his face unmasked and all his love for Dana so plain in his eyes.

She said quickly, "These headaches are really frightful."

Scott's tone was professional again. He asked questions. When did the headaches usually begin? Had they grown in intensity?

Paula's voice rose excitedly. "Oh, yes, they're worse—much worse. They're like a thousand devils tearing at me. I've no peace at all, Scott, until—" She broke off, her face flushing.

Scott had leaned forward, staring at her during the recital. His eyes narrowed. It was not the serious, interested face of her friend, Paula saw. It was the face of a physician, intent, studying her keenly, relentlessly, impersonally. Seeking a clue. Perhaps finding one!

"Until—" Scott insisted quietly. "Until," Paula faltered, "well, until I'm completely unnerfed and exhausted. I try all the remedies, she added lightly. "Aspirin, bromides, and then after a long time the thing wears itself out. But it is ghastly while it lasts."

"I can imagine," Scott said dryly. "Why didn't you tell me all this before, Paula?"

"I didn't think of you in a professional capacity," Paula said in a low voice. "And then I hated to have you know. I've always been rather proud of my vaulted well-being."

"And you've gone all this time without any relief?" Scott asked.

"Once," said Paula carelessly. "Some doctor—I forget his name—gave me a prescription in New York. It helped me at the time."

"Do you know what it was?" Scott probed.

"No, I haven't an idea." Paula glanced at her watch. "Gracious, Scott, I'd no idea it was so late. I'm due at a tea!"

"Come in tomorrow and let me make some pictures and get a clear history of your case. There may be a pressure of some kind.

Or it may be sinus." "I'll come in as soon as I can," Paula promised. Her face was pale. Something in Scott's eyes had warned her.

Scott went to his desk and wrote on a pad. He tore off a bit of paper and handed it to Paula. "This prescription may help. It would under certain conditions. Under others it wouldn't. And come soon. We'll get at the root of your trouble."

Paula thought. "What a fool I was to get into this. Thinking he could be deceived into believing they're ordinary headaches. Telling him about them, just because I wanted an excuse to come here."

She decided swiftly. "I won't come back. I'll call him over the phone and tell him the medicine worked wonders."

After Paula was gone Scott sat staring into space. That prescription would be like so much water, if Paula had fallen into the hands of some unscrupulous chap during one of her bad times. If that were true, it would account for those vicious devils she described.

Good God! It was too horrible to think that of Paula! Maybe, she had exaggerated her reactions, being dramatic about them, as so many women were.

He had always fancied there was something slightly neurotic about Paula. Women like that sometimes went off on a tangent if things became too hard for them.

It was a good thing Paula had a hobby that deeply interested her, and money to gratify her whims. And it might be bad for her, if Paula didn't have everything she wanted.

BASKETBALL ROUGH WITH 3-SEC. LIMIT IN FOUL CIRCLE

Elimination of the pivot play in the foul circle has been blown to the foul circle by means of the new three-second rule for members of the offensive team. The change is the most important change in the basketball code since the 10-second rule of several years ago, as Craig Ruby, Illinois coach, contends.

From the viewpoint of players and coaches, the alteration may change the game more than did the 10-second rule.

The idea was to reduce the congestion in the foul circle and lane, caused by the constant jockeying of the pivot man and his guard, but as far as my agents in Indiana and other midwestern sections can judge, the reverse is true.

They play a heaping basket of basketball in Indiana each season and obtain a flying start, which accounts for the early returns from a district where the left dribble is paramount.

It has become a case of one team setting a defense across the floor and the other attempting to smash through it with a series of line drives," reports H. A. Silverburg, who comments on the hoop sport for the Muncie Evening Press.

"Games appear rougher than they did last year, for no other reason than that the offensive team does not depend upon calm, deliberate play as it did in the past."

SPEEDS UP GAME
Elimination of the tip-off after a successful foul toss, has, in the opinion of Silverburg and others, done more to change the game than anything else. The defensive team immediately puts the ball into play from out of bounds and the consequent dash to the other end of the floor by both squads injects a bit of speed that was not previously apparent.

A fumble is no longer considered a dribble. Since the change brought about most cases of double-dribble it is obvious that there will be less whistle blowing and more action.

Silverburg agrees with practically everybody else in that there will be plenty of arguments before the grind is concluded about the rule that leaves to the discretion of officials the counting of a field goal, scored after

Red Sox Get Heinie Manush

REYNOLDS AND JOHNSON JOIN NATS IN TRADE
WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Nationals, today announced that he had traded Heinie Manush, hard-hitting fielder to the Boston Red Sox for outfielder Carl Reynolds and Roy Johnson.

Griffith, who is known as one of the smartest baseball dealers in the business, indicated that he believed the Washington team got the better of the deal.

Manush since the season closed. Just two days ago he remarked that "Heinie" is going to be traded to somebody. The public wants new faces and I am going to give them what they want."

The deal gave Manager Joe Cronin of the Red Sox, one of his best friends and admirers. Frequently Manush has said, "I would rather work for Joe Cronin than any other manager I know."

High School Five Shades Orangemen
In a conflict notable only for the stubborn defense of both sides, Santa Ana's Saints nixed out Orange's Panthers, 20-16, in high school basketball here yesterday.

Orange looked to have a superior offensive aggregation but the alert Santa Anans, especially Edwin Youel, forced the Panthers to resort to difficult angle shots which were mostly wild.

The Bill Flood-Sam Lockhart guard combination also looked good for the Saints.

The last half contributed the only excitement. The Saints went in with a 6-5 lead and soon made it 8-5 when Bill Milligan sank two charity tosses. The Orangemen erupted and by the third period held a one-point lead, 11-10. But field goals by Youel, Elstman, Lockhart and Flood put Santa Ana back on top.

SANTA ANITA TRACK BANS WIRE BETTING
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17.—Bet-ting on horse races at Santa Anita this winter will be confined to the track itself with no downtown wires carrying wagers, Dr. Charles H. Strub, track manager, said today.

Taking of bets at business district booths connected with the track pari-mutuel machine recently was approved under a court ruling which held that the state thus re-ceived its percentage.

Dr. Strub said directors of the Los Angeles Jockey club made the ruling "in the best interests of rac-ers to protect people from bet-ting who were unable to afford it."

It was understood, however, that the move was designed also to en-hance gate receipts at the track.

"While wire betting might in-crease the mutual handle, we be-lieve it is detrimental to the best interests of racing," he declared.

"We want to confine betting to people who come to the track."

"Anyone who comes to the track and pays an admission fee, is able to judge whether he wants to bet. We don't want widows and orphans to risk their money in downtown bets."

"We also want our patronage to be made up of people who can afford to lose if they bet."

The anti-betting decision is ex-pected to increase gate receipts materially at the track.

A move has been on foot here to establish betting booths and the city of Beverly Hills recently authorized several betting "brok-ers" who would pay a fee to the city and place their bets through the track as provided by law.

TUTTLE NAMED PRESIDENT OF COAST LEAGUE

OAKLAND, Dec. 17.—W. C. Tuttle, Los Angeles writer, today was elected president of the Pacific Coast baseball league for one year.

He was chosen at a meeting of league directors here to succeed Hyland Bagerly of Los Gatos, who resigned at the end of the 1935 season.

Tuttle is 48 and makes his home at Encino, Los Angeles county. He began his writing career as a sports writer on a Spokane newspaper and never lost his interest in the game, although his later endeavors carried him into the field of fiction writing.

His short stories on "Wild West" subjects have appeared in many magazines.

Tuttle also is credited with the discovery of Gene Lillard, Los Angeles third baseman, who picked League from a field of six major candidates during a two-day meet-ing, did not disclose the amount of salary they will pay the new league head.

The election was unanimous. It was announced another meet-ing would be held in Los Angeles Jan. 15 to take final action on the 1936 schedule. A tentative draft was suggested and the program was returned for final drafting.

During their meeting the league directors decided to open the season March 25 and close Sept. 13. Then the four leading teams will meet in a play-off series, the first and third teams and the fourth and second teams playing seven games each. The winners of each series meeting for another seven-game program.

The appointment of Tuttle as president meant the transfer of league headquarters to Los An-geles from San Francisco, where it has been situated for many years.

SCALPERS SEEK $20 FOR JAN. 1 TICKETS
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17.—Scalpers were holding out for $20 a ticket tonight after Stanford failed in an effort to move the New Year day game against Southern Methodist from the sold-out Rose Bowl to the bigger Los Angeles coliseum.

'Baer Best I've Fought,' Says Joe Louis
NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Joe Louis has made his private esti-mate of the men he has con-quered in the ring during his unbroken string of 26 straight triumphs.

Louis' ranking and comment follows:
1—Max Baer. "I rank Baer first because I hit him harder than any other opponent. Any of the two punches I hit Baer with would have knocked out any of the men I have fought."

2—Primo Carnera. "Primo gets second place because of his troublesome left."
3—Lee Ramage. "Ramage is third because of his boxing ability. I learned a lot from him."
4—Ratsy Perron. "I give him fourth place because he tried to fight back harder than any other opponent."

Louis said he couldn't rank any of the rest of his opponents be-cause in the short time they stayed with him he couldn't find out enough about them. In this class he placed Paulino Uzcudun, his most recent victim, King Levinsky and Roy Lazar.

O. C. A. C. ELIMINATES MATCHMAKER TO HELP SAVE BOXING
For the second time in three months, a change is to be made in the "official family" at the Orange County Athletic club.

Thursday will be Carl ("Pop") Andre's last night as boxing matchmaker. Ben Steffler lost the same spot in September.

The maneuver should not be misinterpreted. Andre, a genial, hale-fellow-well-met, delivered conscientious service. His is a case of retrenchment rather than in-ability. Promoter Sam Sampson is dispensing with Andre's services simply to save that much over-head. Andre will continue to act as trainer and instructor.

There will be no boxing show next week (December 26) because of the Christmas holiday season, so Thursday's show, featuring a crack squad from Uncle Sam's Sherman institute, will be the wind-up for 1935.

Thus, Sampson's new deal be-gins with his first program of the new season.

The club will have no boxing matchmaker. Sampson will han-dle that end of the business him-self, aided and abetted, it is un-derstood, by pinch-hitter Tig-Clinton, his public relations coun-sel.

It is no secret that boxing, here as elsewhere, has had its ups and downs; always has, for that mat-ter.

The game lacks an outstanding "card," a chap who can pack 'em in week after week. "Bud" Holz-hauer might have filled the bill but he punched himself out of opponents in the amateur end and will turn pro January 1. Wirt (One Shot) Ross, manager of Young Peter Jackson, Chalky Wright and Henry Armstrong, has "paper" on the Long Beach sen-sation right now. I hear he put out $1000 for the privileges, more than Jack Kearns and George Blake could or would risk.

Holzhauser's decision, of course, made Promoter Sampson's path no easier. Boxing has been losing him money and sleep all winter. What the phenomenal success of wrestling has kept the bland blond out of the red.

What to do is another matter. Sampson is too smart to turn financial graveyard here is full of ill-advised promotional victims. They say it costs around $200 a week to open with the amateurs. Well, the pros come double, often triple that. Talent comes high, and the only satisfaction a pro-moter gets is the knowledge that the boxers he advertises actually will be on deck. That, gentlemen, is expensive security.

Even after a promoter has paid for it, there is no guarantee the boxing will be better, or, which is vastly more important, whether the crowds will be larger.

TIME TO STOP
Young Jack Singer's All-South-ern California high school foot-ball team, selected for the columns of a Los Angeles newspaper, should be the all-star team to end all all-star teams.

Heaven knows the business of preparing these mythical combina-tions is often ridiculous. Primarily it is undertaken by newspapers for "circulation" and "good will." Singer's lineup will do more harm than good. Or maybe his sheet hasn't any subscribers in Long Beach anyhow.

Master Singer names an all-Southern prep eleven without mentioning a single player from the Coast league, long the strong-est unit of the C. I. F. Coast league schools won Southern Cal-ifornia football championships in 9 of the past 15 years. This term the Coast league boasts THREE outstanding teams. Long Beach was undefeated, San Diego lost only to Long Beach. And Santa Ana whipped BOTH teams that were supposed to meet for the C. I. F. title. Yet Singer ignored 'em all — Jackrabbits, Hillers and Saints. His first string:

Ends — Preston Clipper (Muir Tech) and Nolan Beat (Anaheim); tackles — Harry Smith (Chaffey) and Art Kornegiel (Santa Barbara); guards—Louis Bowman (Monrovia) and Herman Folsom (Fairfax); center — John Scoules (Manual Arts); quarter — K. E. Kennedy (Lincoln); half-backs—Ralph Bertell (San Fernando) and George Sims (Santa Monica); full-back—Bill Sangster (Muir Tech).

By his own admission, Bown said "after I saw the team-work tactics of the Eastern contestants I fol-lowed suit." Beardslee needed only to lead The Ace home to win. The champion was far behind The Ace when Bown, on the windward mark, saw a chance to "cover" The Ace, which he did, forcing the East's contender far off the course. Beardslee eventually got untracked, sailed ahead of The Ace and cap-tured the championship by two points.

M. S. Robinson, editor of the Pacific Skipper, and other Pacific Coast officials maintain the Pa-cific fleet is being "jobbed" by Easterners "who haven't the cour-age to come out and take away the championship on a sailing course." Team-work, they declare, always has been a part of the star series and nobody has objected be-fore. Furthermore, they contend, "Bown did not participate in the 'team-work' until the Easterners started it."

S. F. Match Play Boycott Proposed By Pro Golf Aces
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17.—Nationally known professional golfers today threatened boycott of the National Match Play Open golf championships, scheduled for San Francisco in January, unless a $25 entry fee is reduced to $5.

The golf stars, now residing at Coral Gables, Fla., notified Wil-liam Scott, chairman of the tourna-ment committee of the San Fran-cisco Junior Chamber of Com-merce, of their intentions.

Scott explained that the $25 fee was necessary because the tourna-ment must be conducted without demands on the Chamber of Com-merce to cover any deficit. Bud-get deficits previously have been covered by the chamber's treasury.

Although the tournament com-mittee raised entry fees this year, prizes were increased and addi-tional awards added.

BASKETBALL INTEREST SPREADS

Cabaret Cuties Now Play It For Fame and Fortune
By HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Until a few nights ago basketball had al-ways been bracketed with rope climbing, amateur wrestling, and lacrosse in my book, meaning I considered it as something to be avoided.

A few nights ago I happened in-to the Hollywood restaurant and saw basketball as he really should be played. The Hollywood restau-rant is just about the last place you'd ever expect to find basket-ball, for it is a night club pitched smack down in the middle of Broadway. Its advertisements give no hint of basketball, but stress Abe the Lyman's band, 200 honey dolls dressed as though they were leaving a burning building in a hurry, and the usual assortment of torch singers, crooners and hoof-de-hoofers.

The basketball game is the three-star feature of the floor show and is played between two teams, the blondes and the brunettes. As soon as the players came out of the un-dressing rooms I knew the game was going to be something I should report and so asked the manager to please give me a seat in the first row work-ing press.

The blondes and the brunettes hadn't played a minute before I knew that basketball, to reach its full beauty, so to speak, must be played by chorus girls. It's no game for long-legged gents with knocked and knobby knees, flat feet and homely faces.

The setting for the game at the Hollywood is lovely, and makes the planked bareness of your av-erage basketball game seem pretty sorry. The goal posts are of sil-ver, the nets gaily tasseled. The goals stand at each end of a mir-rrored dance floor, across which soft lights play. And during the game Brother Lyman and his boys furnish "What a Lovely Day" in just the right athletic tempo.

The players take their game ser-iously. This is best shown by the fact that, in the eagerness to be at their very fastest, they wear practically nothing. The blondes, who won the four games I watch-ed, wore 4 to 1, 6 to 1, and 8 to 1, use a bear motif in their cos-tumes. It was possible to dis-tinguish the players by the num-ber of their beads. The guards work three beads, the center two, and the forwards one. The regu-lars, that is. The substitutes have to get along with nothing until they earn their letters.

The brunettes' costume obvious-ly is a dead steal from Sally Rand's outfit.

SWEATERS AWARDED SEVEN DON VETERANS
Continuing the practice inaugu-rated last season of awarding two-year football lettermen the official Santa Ana junior college athletic sweater, the college executive board yesterday indicated seven men as being eligible for the hon-ors.

Those who have been given monograms two years in a row and therefore eligible for sweaters are Charles Roemer, Nelson Rog-ers, Bruce Harmon, Major Ander-son, Ralph Comstock, Harold Youel and Manager Preston Piper.

ANNUAL PLAY PRESENTED BY CLUB CHORUS

ORANGE, Dec. 17.—An outstanding event of the club year was the presentation of "The Wondrous Story" by the members of the chorus of the Orange Woman's club at the clubhouse yesterday under the direction of Frank Pierce of Santa Ana. The continuity of the production was written by Miss Sue Scarritt. Mrs. Guy Richards heads the chorus as president.

The stage effects were very lovely with well arranged lighting. The members of the chorus were seated behind a gauze curtain at the back of the stage. The story was that of the birth of the Christ child and the opening scenes showed the shepherds and later the coming of the Magi. The parts of the shepherds were taken by G. L. Niles, Mrs. Donald Smiley and Mrs. E. H. Smith and those of the Wise Men by Mrs. E. R. Douglas, Mrs. Charles Hibbens and Mrs. Roy Buckles. Mrs. Leon DesLarzes represented Mary and Mrs. V. A. Wood, Joseph.

Mrs. Christine Lambert was accompanist and others aiding in accompaniments were Anna Mae Archer, cello; Barbara Robinson, violin; Gilbert Bell, clarinet, and Kathryn Sutherland, flute.

Solos were given by Frank Pierce, who sang "The New Born King," Sallie Coe Mueller, who sang, "Jesus Bambina," and Mrs. W. J. Sutherland, who sang "Holy Night."

Members of the chorus are soprano, Mesdames Ella Kogler, Frank Collins, John Hirst, Chester Stearns, Meta Rorex; second soprano, Mesdames R. C. Patton, Alfred Eisenbraun, Leroy Bell, Horace Newman, Noral Evans, J. Sutherland, Jess Coe, A. D. Burckett, A. W. Fullerton, Mrs. W. A. Knuth, Guy Richards and Miss Sue Scarritt.

Following the program tea was served to the 250 women present. The tea table was spread with a lace cloth and was centered with a miniature scene of Santa Claus and his reindeer flanked by tall silver candle sticks which held red candles. Bowls of beautiful white roses were used to decorate the lobby and silver tea services were used.

Mrs. A. R. Smith and Mrs. Watter Pixley poured. Mrs. Pixley was in black crepe and Mrs. Smith was in deep blue velvet. Guests were received by Miss Sue Scarritt, Mrs. Frank Collins, Mrs. A. D. Burckett and Mrs. Horace Newman.

Mrs. Fred Alden announced the Christmas party to be held at the clubhouse tomorrow for the old people at the county hospital and that small presents are needed for them. A program will be given and refreshments served.

CLUB MEMBERS HEAR TALK BY CLARK SELLERS

ORANGE, Dec. 17.—J. Clark Sellers, of Los Angeles, one of the handwriting experts employed by the United States government on the Lindbergh case, was the speaker at the meeting of the Orange Men's club Monday night at the Trinity Episcopal church parish hall, 150 being present at the dinner which preceded the talk.

Karl Glasbrenner was in charge of the meeting and Sellers was introduced by Judge J. E. Tucker, of Santa Ana. John Stout played a violin solo and later a duet with Vladimir Lenaki.

Sellers illustrated his talk on evidence in the Lindbergh case with slides, showing the writing of Bruno Hauptmann and that of the notes. He stated that out of eight handwriting experts in the Lindbergh case but one was a witness for the defense. All of the $50,000 ransom money in the case but $12 has been accounted for, Sellers said.

The speaker declared that circumstantial evidence is of great value in determining the guilt or innocence of suspected persons. Eye witnesses to a crime are notoriously unreliable, he said.

In closing he said, "I say to you as I say to the jury, Mr. Hauptmann might just as well signed his own name to the ransom notes, so similar is the handwriting. I have yet to hear an opinion expressed that Hauptmann is innocent by anyone who has investigated the case."

VETERAN BURIAL BAN IS REMOVED

Recent restrictions prohibiting burial in the cemetery at National Soldiers' Home, Sawtelle, of any veterans other than inmates of the home have been lifted.

According to Harry Edwards, Orange county veterans' welfare officer, the soldiers' home cemetery will be opened to all veterans after December 27.

Several months ago officials of the United States veterans' administration ruled that, because of the increasing number of deaths among veterans and the impossibility of obtaining more ground for the Sawtelle cemetery it would be necessary to restrict burials at the home.

To be eligible to burial at Sawtelle, during the life of the restriction, the veteran must have been a patient at the home at the time of death.

DISCRIMINATION AGAINST FIFTH DISTRICT IN ROAD FUNDS CHARGED BY WEST

Recalling the unsolved mystery of whether the egg or the chicken came first, Supervisor N. E. West, of the fifth district, bickered with Chairman John C. Mitchell, of the second district, at yesterday's special board meeting, over the question whether population and assessed valuations precede roads, or roads precede population and assessed valuation. West charged that his district, the fifth, had been discriminated against in the distribution of road funds.

While the argument finally was left in the same position as the chicken-and-egg debate, the board again postponed action on ways and means of financing the South Main street extension project, which precipitated the debate when Mitchell proposed that West supply the county's share of the WPA project from road funds of his district. West felt that the money should come from the county general fund.

Mitchell disagreed with that view. "I put $10,000 of my district funds into the Palm street-harbor cut-off," he pointed out to West.

street was not a district project but a state highway in which the entire county was interested, and was primarily an employment project. Mitchell corrected him by saying that it would not be a state highway until after it was completed; then it would be taken over by the state. He reiterated that West should supply the funds for it from his own road district money.

Stating that he failed to follow Mitchell's reasoning or the justice of his position, West asserted that not only did his district fund lack the money for South Main street, but that there has been discrimination in distributing road funds to the fifth district, which, he pointed out, comprised 60 per cent of the county's area.

"Yah, but there's a lot of mountains which a goat couldn't climb," remarked Mitchell tartly. "Why, in my district, I've got more roads and population and assessed valuation than you have, and am entitled to more money."

"Roads Bring Population" "The answer to that," retorted West, "is that you got the roads first, before you got the population and assessed valuation. That is due to past policy of this board, in discriminating against the fifth district. If my district had been given the roads, it would have had the population and assessed valuation now.

Supervisor W. C. Jerome, of the first district, interjected the remark to Mitchell that all five supervisors are interested in the South Main street project, and proposed that the matter be delayed until the return of Supervisor Willard Smith, of the fourth district, now out of the state, and also until after the flood bond election, when the unemployment situation would be clearer.

Sen. Nye to Tell Fomenting of Wars by Munition Makers

U. S. Sen. Gerald P. Nye

How munitions manufacturers, through propaganda, foment wars and international hatred to further their traffic in arms, will be revealed by United States Senator Gerald P. Nye when he speaks under the auspices of the Modern Forum at Philharmonic Auditorium Wednesday evening, December 18. Senator Nye is expected also to throw further light on recent charges made by his committee that munitions makers are sending war supplies to Italy and Ethiopia in violation of presidential orders that America must remain neutral and not aid participants in the present conflict.

SOME STRAIGHT QUESTIONS ON THE WATER BOND ISSUE

(An Editorial)
Not the expression of The Register, but of J. F. BURKE

The voters are familiar with the tactics used in this county by the politicians when they cannot meet the arguments of their opponents.

These politicians begin to question the motives of individuals, and to indulge in personalities.

However, this method of attack is so obvious and is so worn-out that it is about as effective as a "hog on ice."

The voters are fooled no longer by this evading of the issue and are going to the heart of the question before them.

In this water bond campaign, they have gone to the "meat of the coconut," and are asking themselves such questions as the following:

Isn't the water uncertain every year, but the tax payments certain twice every year?

Why did the engineers propose a dam which would be efficiently useful only twice in 1,000 years, according to their own statements?

Why do the proponents of the bonds exaggerate the damage done by the flood of 1916?

Why are Los Angeles county people so extremely anxious that Orange county shall assume such an extremely large and excessive debt burden?

Why are the Portland Cement people paying workers for these bonds?

Why is the printing of circulars, pamphlets, etc., being done in Los Angeles?

Why do they not patronize the local Orange county business men for this work?

Why did they allow a Los Angeles advertising agency to "horn in" on the advertising and to "chisel" the local newspapers for 15 per cent?

Why shouldn't all this work and money remain here in Orange county, instead of being withdrawn to our neighboring county?

Just what was the agreement the supervisors of the county entered into with the supervisors of Riverside county, when they were given permission by the latter to build the dam?

Were Orange county's interests protected by the supervisors in this instance or were concessions made on the spreading of water in the Upper Santa Ana river?

Why didn't the supervisors cut down the amount of the proposed bond issue by over $2,000,000, as suggested by Mr. West, one of their own number?

Why didn't the supervisors lower the amount by $1,650,000, as recommended by their own water engineers?

And why didn't they lower the amount in accordance with the provisions of the modified plan?

For what reason did they side-track the modified plan?

Why did they include the amount for rights of way at the valuations of 1929, instead of the valuations of today?

Are the people, the voters and taxpayers running the county or are the supervisors running it?

Are the supervisors the "bosses" of the people or are they the servants of the people?

After the people turned down the bond issue on October 4th, did the supervisors think the people were just doing that in fun, and didn't mean what they said by their votes?

And why do the supervisors put the county to the expense of another election, on the same identical project, when they have the answer of the people before them?

Do they think the voters and taxpayers are their lackeys and serfs?

By what reasoning can they explain the halting of the WPA workmen at their tasks, in order that the proponents may explain their side of the proposition to these men?

Why are they attempting to fool and mislead these workmen by saying those employed on this project will receive a prevailing wage?

If the work is done under WPA auspices, will not the wage scale be from $48 to $77 per month, no matter what the rate may be per hour?

If it be let out on contract, when the contractor must pay the prevailing wage, just why is $1,300,000 put in the specifications for equipment and materials?

When did our political subdivisions start buying equipment and materials for private contractors?

Why this sudden friendship and solicitude for the laboring men, when one of the board of supervisors declared at the meeting of the state supervisors, that the amount per month for the needy could be cut from $48 to $22, if it were returned to the county from the SERA?

Have any of the supervisors favored this project or any of the members of the citizens' committee ever taken a stand before on behalf of the laboring man?

Can we forget that it is the same board of supervisors which called this election, which increased the expenditures of the county $714,000 over those of last year?

Can we ignore the fact that it is these same officials who are directing the welfare department of this county, which is operated at an expense for overhead of 21.5 per cent of the total money, while the SERA has operated as low as 8.5 per cent for overhead?

These questions, and many others like them, are vital factors in this campaign, and I feel confident when the voter and taxpayer searches for and finds the answers to them, he will rebuke this high-handedness on the part of our elected officials, and insure democracy in Orange county.

This editorial is my own. It has neither been prepared nor submitted to any committee nor group, and the space is paid for by myself and no one else.

Seek Probate Of Carrow Estate

The late Barbara Carrow, of Fullerton, who died December 8, left a $10,000 estate chiefly to seven heirs, with smaller legacies to others, it was shown when the will was filed in superior court yesterday for probate.

Margaret Hoover, of Delhi, Canada; Eliza Cohoe, of Placentia; Hannah Barnes, of Redwood City, each received one-fifth of the residue, after provision was made for distribution of china, silver heirlooms and household goods to various legatees. Another fifth share was left with Kary Kohl, of Long Beach, in trust for Ida Key, of Fullerton, sister-in-law of the deceased. At her death the share goes to Charles Barnes and his sister, Barbara Barnes, of Redwood City, who also were bequeathed household goods and heirlooms. The remainder of the residue was left, one-tenth each, to Walter Spencer and Grant Spencer, both of Ontario, Canada.

Council Enjoys Christmas Party In New City Hall

SESSION: GIVE
SOLONS GIFTS

It was a "Merry Christmas" party for a half hour of the city council meeting last night as the solons, with their wives in attendance for the first time in many months, if ever, concluded in true holiday mood with Auditor Lloyd Banks and PWA Building Inspector Vernon Houghton acting as "master of ceremony."

Arrangements had been made for a Christmas tree and all the trimmings, "planted" near the councilmanic desks. The councilmen received numerous gifts from their wives, Contractors Hall and Houghton, and others, including stockings with candy, toys appropriate for each councilman and numerous pieces of fluffy lingerie the last of which they were instructed to donate to their wives. With each gift went an appropriate verse, Auditor Banks being responsible therefore.

To Councilman Plummer Bruns, police commissioner, went a toy police stick stick to which was appended:

"In some sock—upon some tree
"Far away from you and me
"Don't you think our hardware is?
"Or is it any of my biz?"
—Santa Claus.

Councilman Layton, street commissioner, received a piece of curbstone and the verse:

"I've hunted near—I've hunted far;
"I can no longer park my car
"Upon your city street,
"And so for you—my little treat
"Must not be dropped upon your
"Feet.—Santa."

Wives, too, were honored with gifts and each woman in the council chamber received a red rose from the city fathers. Mrs. Fred Rowland assisted in the ceremony in which Police Chief Floyd Howard, City Clerk Ed Vegey, City Attorney Blodgett and others also received "special" gifts. Houghton brought a laugh when he presented a little toy bovine animal to Councilman Joe Smith, describing it as "not being a cow." "Bulloney!" was said to have been Smith's answer.

NEIGHBORHOOD NOISES FILL
AIR AS PREPARATIONS FOR CHRISTMAS GET UNDERWAY

By VIRGINIA FRITCHER

Neighborhood noises of no ordinary proportions are filling the air these crisp nights as preparations progress for holiday celebrations which in some families are already underway and will of course reach their climax during the weeks of Christmas and New Year's day.

Many a young father sneaks out in the garage at night to put the finishing touches on some extra special toy for Junior, while the expectant young son sleeps away the cares which childhood accumulates.

Some neighborhoods report that over ambitious people who are busy all day long have been chopping wood at night, trying to get some Yule logs stacked up for the holiday hearth fires. Truly, this is a pleasant sound to the unintentional eavesdropper who is doing a little wood-sawing himself.

Pleasant Odors

Pleasant odors a plenty emit from many a home as mother spends a spare evening or two in the kitchen preparing Christmas goodies for gifts or for the hospitality tray. Gingerbread men and Santa Claus figures have been requested by many boys and girls, who can make quick disposal of culinary works of art which take our lady of the kitchen several hours to prepare.

If you have a Christmas tree all in readiness to take home, and you live in a neighborhood where children are on the alert for interesting happenings, make a dash for the back door, hide behind the tree, or do anything but mosey along proudly displaying your purchase. "Where did you get that tree?" "When are you going to decorate it?" "How much did it cost?" and "Let me help you put the tinsel on" are but a few of the suggestions which you are sure to hear if you are not very careful.

Consider Santa Claus

Too, you must consider poor Santa Claus, who is working very fast in an effort to get Christmas trees to many Santa Ana homes within the next several days. Do you want him to get all flustered and bothered? Then don't flaunt your purchases before over-anxious children.

Neighborhoods are nice little communities where the Christmas spirit is finding a bountiful expression these days and nights. Cooky bakers and wood choppers alike seem to have the same purpose—creating a welcome atmosphere for old St. Nick and other annual invaders. Many a new light will shine in windows every night from now until Christmas as additional Christmas trees are set up, and more families complete their holiday plans. May we all enjoy the little things which make for a happy holiday time.

NEW STRENGTH DEVELOPED IN
BEAN MARKETS

Reduction in Regular Lima Stocks as of December 1, 1935, of over 100,000 bags as against corresponding period of last year in warehouses on the Pacific Coast has developed additional strength during the past few days and inquiry from Eastern trade is more active than for some time past.

This is the heartening news given Orange county bean growers today in a circular from the market. It is anticipated that buying operations will be resumed within a few days, offsetting the seasonal quiet period caused by the holiday and other specialty buying.

The total stocks of Regular Limas should be cleaned up before represents 655,694 bags as against 761,834 bags December 1st, 1934. The movement of Regular Limas totalled approximately 700,000 bags from December 1, 1934 up to and including August 1, 1935, and from a statistical position the entire Pacific Coast holdings of Large Limas should be cleaned up before new season's crop comes in September 1936, allowing the 1936-37 Lima production to come in on a bare market, it was stated.

Although warm weather prevailed the price has receded slightly from the October opening date trade demand fell off slightly due to the warm weather that has prevailed generally throughout bean consuming areas, it was added.

Reports from all producing areas show California varieties holding firm, the tendency on the grower's part being to release small offerings making for improved market steadiness. The total holdings of all varieties of dry beans in the southern part of the state is below last year's figure by 135,000 bags reflected principally in Regular Limas and Baby Lima stocks respectively.

The market on Regular Limas in the past few days has advanced 15 points at Pacific Coast, and operators are endeavoring to secure stocks to fill current orders, the report said.

The Royal College of Surgeons in London contains what is said to be the oldest Egyptian mummy known. It is that of Ra-Nofer of the third dynasty, about 2900 B. C.

SEEK RETURN OF CRIPPLE'S PET
DOG, "SKIPPER"

Near-tragedy has struck at "Brownie" Simoneaux.

His pet Scottie dog, "Skipper," is missing. He disappeared yesterday and Simoneaux feels as though a part of his life is gone.

Simoneaux, a crippled youth who rides about town in a motorized wheel chair, raised Skipper from a pup to one of the most striking black and silver Scotties in Santa Ana. Not only is Skipper a handsome dog but he is a lovable little fellow who understands and loves his master.

When Simoneaux returned to his home he discovered that the dog was gone. He had been tied in the yard and had either slipped his chain or was stolen. The pet was wearing a red harness to which was attached a German twist chain. Anyone finding the dog will be doing a kindly act if they telephone "Brownie" at 5530 W.

TO OPEN CAMPS
FOR 450 SINGLE
MEN IN COUNTY

Approximately 450 single men will be in Works "progress administration camps located in Orange county by January 1, according to WPA Director Dan Mulhron. Two of the camps, located in Silverado and Black Star canyons will be operated under direction of the state forestry service. The third camp, to be established, will be located on the site of the old CCC camp near San Clemente and will be directed by the state park supervisor.

According to present plans the camps in Black Star and Silverado canyons will go into operation by Wednesday. The San Clemente camp will start activities by the end of the week.

According to J. B. Porter, administrative assistant in charge of the state's camp activities, the wage scale for workers in the camps will range from $15 to $25 monthly, and subsistence. Unskilled labor will receive $15; intermediate $20 and skilled labor $25. Subsistence offered is food, lodgings and emergency medical and dental care.

Transfer Personnel
The bulk of personnel for the three camps will be transferred from the State Emergency Relief administration transient relief roles, it was said by Porter. All men admitted to the camps must be single men without dependents.

Under the WPA program outlined for the state it is proposed to establish approximately 40 of these camps, employing 10,000 men. In most of the camps the workers will be employed on projects submitted and approved under the state division of natural resources and will be for the purpose of reducing forest fire hazards, construction of lookout and ranger stations, improvement of state-owned parks and fish and game conservation projects.

Ostensibly planned to give relief to single men the camps will be on an efficiency basis, according to WPA officials. The men will be required to work 120 hours per month or five six-hour days per week. The men, WPA officials said, will be provided with good food and comfortable camps in exchange for a fair day's work.

PARK PROGRAM DISCUSSED BY CITY COUNCIL

Two park development programs relating to progressive action for Santiago creek park under city-WPA direction were considered by city council at its regular meeting last night.

One program, already approved previously by the council and more recently by Works Progress administration officials, involving acquisition of properties located between Main street and Santa Ana boulevard, adjacent to the park, was re-approved and Mayor Fred Rowland and Auditor Lloyd Banks were authorized to sign the city-WPA agreement.

The action was a formality made necessary by WPA rules and involved property values at $1400, most of which was acquired previously, some years ago. Eventually, according to City Engineer J. L. McBride, the area will be developed with $21,000 worth of man-hour labor furnished by WPA. The city must provide approximately 20 percent of the total cost of the project, including the $1400 worth of property, a major portion of which the city already has paid for. The city engineer pointed out. The next step will be re-affirmation by WPA of the agreement.

Part of Costs Paid

Already the city has furnished a considerable share of its 20 percent cost of the project, through rentals of city-owned property, allowed by WPA, and previous purchase of lands.

Difficulties of ironing out points in the technical understanding of the second program, proposed purchase of four acres of land located adjacent to the park, at the east end of Santa Ana auto camp, and part of the creek north of the park, for approximately $3000, caused the council to postpone action of purchase and further consideration, until next Monday evening at 7:30. Councilman Ernest Layton, who made the motion for the purchase, withdrew it upon advice of City Attorney Law Blodgett who then was asked to look into the matter.

The land, belonging to Evans Jones, Councilman Layton said is to be acquired, with councilmanic approval, for establishment of walls, terraces, shafts for Boy and Girl Scouts and other improvement, work to be done by WPA workmen. At present, a crew of 100 WPA men is at work in the park, adjacent to the Jones property, building walls, terraces, etc. Some materials from the South Main street widening project, which gets under way soon, will be used on the Jones property project, it is planned.

NEW STATION OPENED

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 17.—Carl Clemens, experienced service station operator, has opened a new Union Oil company service station at First and Ocean. The station is located on property owned by S. R. Bowen and the site was formerly occupied by the Associated Oil company station. Mr. Clemens will carry a complete stock of auto tires.

Club Members Welcome Husbands to Holiday Dinner Party

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Hershiser opened their home, 1815 North Flower street, Friday night for a holiday dinner at which bridge club members entertained their husbands.

Mrs. Hershiser observed a red and silver decorative motif throughout the evening. Dinner was served buffet style from a lace-covered table brightened with poinsettias, silver pine cones, and silver and red tapers. Small tables in the living room were centered alternately with silver trees and pine cones.

Red and silver taffies were distributed for bridge games in which Mrs. R. M. Conklin and Chester Horton scored high. Mrs. Newell Moore received a glowing award.

Invited to attend were Dr. and Mrs. Mervin Bryte, Dr. and Mrs. Newell Moore and Messrs. and Mesdames John Ebersole, Glenn Mathis, Roscoe Conklin, John L. Taylor, James Workman, Aubrey Gilman, Chester Horton, Sheldon Russell and James McCalla, with Mr. and Mrs. Hershiser completing the group.

Friends Join to Make Gift Presentation To Recent Bride

Inspired by the recent wedding of Miss Laura Davignon and Ernest Danielson Jr., was a delightful evening party at which Mrs. Anna Danielson and Mrs. Alfred J. Fessman (Florence Danielson) entertained late last week in Mrs. Danielson's charming ranch home on North Main street.

A Christmas tree, quantities of scarlet flowers and candles served to increase the holiday mood of the guests, as they chatted over the tea-towels which were handed for the bride. To Miss Eunice Blanchard was awarded a prize for the neatest needlework, while a similar gift rewarded Mrs. Robert L. Blanchard in a game.

Santa Claus himself attended the party, with a basket of gifts for the new Mrs. Danielson who found kitchen utensils, pottery and a complete set of dishes together with several amusing joke gifts including a can-opener within a huge box.

Candelabra with their slim Christmas candles, and an unusual centerpiece fashioned by Mrs. Lawrence Archibald graced the table from which refreshments were served buffet style. The molded chicken salad and sandwich course was followed by angel food cake and coffee. Mrs. Danielson poured coffee. Trays were arranged with gold lace doilies and favors of candy flower corsages.

Mrs. Danielson and Mrs. Fessman had as guests in addition to the bride-honoree, Mrs. Danielson Jr., Mrs. Robert L. Blanchard, Mrs. Misses Eunice and Vivian Blanchard, Mrs. Alice Christian, Mrs. Opal Custer, Mrs. Matilda Nehrhoff, Miss Jean Nehrhoff, Mrs. Evelyn Taylor of Anaheim, Mrs. Leo Beeson and Mrs. Arthur Davignon of Atwood, Mrs. Lawrence Archibald, Miss Charlotte Barker, Mrs. Ernest Wagers, Mrs. Lewis Merrill, Mrs. Alice Merrill of Newport Beach and Mrs. William Ruescher of Hollywood.

Three P. E. O. Groups Enjoy Christmas Meetings

Exchanging Christmas gifts and sharing other holiday pleasures, members of the city's three P. E. O. chapters met yesterday afternoon in their several homes.

DI chapter members were entertained in the Hugh Plumb home on Main street, Tustin, where Mrs. A. J. Crookshank and Miss Genevieve Humiston were co-hostesses with Mrs. Plumb. Mrs. O. Scott McFarland read the story of the First Christmas, by Henry Van Dyck, following luncheon served from a gayly appointed table. Mrs. C. C. Fuller and Mrs. Clarence Gustlin assisted in serving. Mrs. Orson Hunter will be hostess at the next meeting.

Mrs. Henry Field received members of chapter GJ in her home, 710 Eastwood avenue. Mrs. Harry Bowman sang, accompanied by Mrs. Margaret Miller. There was community singing of Christmas carols. Refreshments were served. Mrs. Clarence Bond and Mrs. Wendell Heli will be co-hostesses at the next meeting.

The Dr. J. E. Paul home, Main street, Tustin, was setting for a luncheon of Chapter AB, at which Mrs. F. C. Rowland was co-hostess with Mrs. Paul. Mrs. Leah Shirley of Long Beach, state organizer, was present. The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. G. E. Bruns, 1209 Spurgeon street. January 6 is the date set for meetings of all three chapters.

Bridge Club Husbands Are Special Guests At Dinner Party

That two table bridge club called the Friendly Eight, demonstrated its name quite charmingly last night by stretching its boundaries to include husbands of members, who were complimented at a covered dish dinner served in the George W. Palmer home, 1145 South Birch street.

Mrs. Palmer had arranged her Christmas decorations in time for the party, and members were greeted by the pungent aroma of spruce, the gay holly wreaths hanging at the windows, sprays of mistletoe hanging from the doorways, and the soft glow of candles. Candles, small Christmas trees and a charming snow scene graced the dining table from which the menu was served, and individual tables bore center clusters of Christmas blooms.

In the evening's bridge play, high scores made by Mrs. J. J. Vernon and A. J. Anderson, and low scores of Mrs. Warren Jones and A. F. Johnson, merited attractive prizes. Husbands and bridge club members comprising the pleasant group were Mr. and Mrs. George W. Palmer, hosts, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Burkett, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Krahling, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Jones, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. John J. Vernon.

Santa Anans Included On Guest List for Noted Educator

The presence in the Southland of Dr. Carleton Wotherspoon, of the Winnetka, Ill. school system, an educator nationally famous for his modern teaching methods, was inspiration for a family reunion Sunday in the home of his mother, Mrs. Marian F. Wotherspoon, Los Angeles, at which Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Dunlap and Miss Ruth Dunlap, 2143 North Main street, were guests. Mrs. Dunlap is a daughter of Mrs. Wotherspoon, and sister of the distinguished easterner.

Dr. Wotherspoon is on a short lecture trip during which he will address educators in Los Angeles and Pasadena with his third engagement tomorrow in San Diego, after which he will return to Winnetka by plane.

In complimenting him Sunday at the intimately planned dinner, his mother had as guests in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Dunlap and Miss Ruth Dunlap, Mrs. Kate Gartz and her son, Crane Gartz of Pasadena; Mr. and Mrs. John Packard, Mrs. Jerry Voorhis and Miss LaMont of Los Angeles. After dinner all went to the Gartz home in Pasadena where half a hundred guests including prominent educators of the Southland, were assembled, and where Dr. Wotherspoon talked informally on modern teaching methods as applied in the Winnetka schools. His system as introduced there, is arousing interest generally, and the progress of the experiments is being closely surveyed by those prominent in the nation's educational field.

Bridal Showers Come In Compliment to Miss Switzler

Although the week is yet young, already it has brought two showers for Miss H. Switzler, who received her late wedding gift last night when Mr. Hugh Gerrard entertained in her home, 2009 Victoria drive. The hostess, Mrs. Philip Gerrard, and Miss Switzler are to be married in the near future.

Cotoneaster sprays were used in decorating. Guests spent part of the evening recording recipes, and making pretty red and white kitchen holders for Miss Switzler. A special award went to Mrs. Anna Cozad. Mrs. A. R. Lowen, who scored high in cootie, received a prize. Kitchen gifts were showered on the bride-elect.

Mrs. Gerrard had assistance of her daughter, Miss Phyllis Gerrard, in serving apple pie topped with whipped cream and lighted with tiny red candles.

Guests included the honoree and Mesdames Harry Switzler, M. J. Switzler, Charles M. Turner, Rev. Bishop, R. K. Peck, A. R. Lowen, Etta Pistole, Fay Whitten, Mabel Sherwood, George Morgan, Anna Cozad, this city; Frank Christian, Orange.

Pottery Tea

Miss Joy Lee Henderson was hostess at a tea and pottery show Sunday afternoon in her home, 724 South Birch street, in honor of Miss Switzler. Signing for a package brought by a messenger, the bride-elect found that the decorated box contained pottery for a breakfast set. Guests had joined in making the presentation.

A program included readings, "Here we Are" and a modern version of "Romeo and Juliet" by Miss June Arnold; reading, "The Man Who Waited," by Miss Geraldine Gilbert; Mrs. Arthur May sang "Sweethearts" from "Maytime," "Indian Love Call," from "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" and "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes." Miss Henderson was her accompanist.

The hostess' mother and sister, Mrs. Walter L. Henderson and Miss Bernice Henderson, assisted in entertaining. Mrs. May presided at a candle-lit table centered with a miniature scene of the Nativity. Poinsettias and holly brightened other rooms.

Guests in the Henderson home, in addition to Miss Helen Switzler and her mother and sister, Mrs. H. E. Switzler and Miss Vivian Switzler, were Mesdames Edward Storey, Floyd Hubbard, Arthur May, Le Roy Craig, Hugh Gerrard, M. J. Switzler, Walter L. Henderson, Charles Morgan, Floyd Haskell and the Misses Alice Whitten, Marjorie Hoff, June Arnold, Geraldine Gilbert, Janita Patton, Lola Pride, Dempsey Pride, all of this city; Mrs. Orley Wright, Orange; Mrs. Charles Wickert, Fullerton; Miss Doris Slonicker, Midway City.

Day Nursery to Benefit By Party Series in Irvine Home

Continuing a series of semi-monthly bridge luncheons which have as their inspiration, the welfare of Ebell Day Nursery, Mrs. James Irvine was hostess yesterday to the recently organized group, in her home on San Joaquin ranch.

The historic old ranch house, spacious and charming, wore its most festive air, with silver bowls of California holly, and the jeweled colors of unusual desert plants. Bright silver globes and ornaments were heaped in the center of the table, with its handsome luncheon jaces and linens.

There was an unexpected feature for the hostess during the afternoon, when her guests surprised her with the gift of a beautiful oriole for her aviary.

Six tables were formed for bridge in the afternoon, and in accordance with the plan devised by Mrs. Irvine, all proceeds from the luncheon will go to the Day Nursery. She will continue the series in January and succeeding months, with every first and third Monday devoted to the project in which charity and hospitality are so subtly blended.

B. P. W. Members Enjoy Annual Visit From Santa Claus

Characterized by the light-hearted gaiety of the season, the Christmas party of Business and Professional Women's club, opened last night with a turkey dinner in the Doris Kathryn, and concluded with a visit from Santa Claus after an interval of well balanced serious and gay features.

Miss Lorraine French presided over the business interval, opened with community singing of "Silent Night" with Mrs. Marie Fowler at the piano, and continuing with reports of the dinner in Los Angeles Saturday night complimentary to Miss Chari Williams, national B. P. W. president. Mrs. Grace Wolff gave the principal report, amplified by other brief reminiscences of the evening by various members who had attended.

A short but informative talk on the water bonds and the situation leading to the called election was given by Worth Babbitt; announcement was made of the Riverside B. P. W. and Institute of World Affairs dinner Thursday night in Glenwood Mission Inn, and the January program committee was named as Miss Hubertene Kueneman, Miss Alma Karlsson and Miss Martha Whitson. Two new members were introduced, Eunice V. Adams, a member of the Julia Lathrop school staff, and Flora Clark of the Drumm, Tucker, Martel and Drumm office.

The more informal program opened with the reading of a Christmas story by Miss Lula B. Ott, followed by the arrival of Santa Claus "personally conducted" by Miss Alma Karlsson. Ebell Travelers Give Afternoon To Seasonal Features

Mrs. John J. Harrison, Mrs. Howard Wassum and Mrs. J. I. Walker comprised a hostess group yesterday receiving members of Ebell Second Travel section at a holiday luncheon in the clubhouse.

Yule colors of vivid red and green were apparent in the many candles lighting the clubhouse dining room, whose curtains were drawn that the candles might glow with increased charm. A snow scene centered the table, with Santa Claus in his reindeer-drawn sleigh. The luncheon was a true holiday one, from fruit cocktail to plum pudding.

Mrs. T. A. Winbiger conducted the business meeting in the lounge, naming Mrs. P. S. Virgin, Mrs. Jay Hamill and Mrs. George Neilson as the January committee. Mrs. Hamill had charge of the program, and served as accompanist for the various musical numbers which included community singing of Christmas carols as the opening feature.

Mrs. Harry N. Hayes sang at intervals, such favorites as "There's a Song in the Air" (Speaks) and "There Were Shepherds" (Lynes). Mrs. Mit Phillips also sang a solo, "Birthday of a King" (Niedling); Miss June Bislene played a violin number, "Russian Intermezzo" (Francke), and there were readings, "The Newsboy in Church" and "A Christmas Compromise" by Mrs. W. Club Members Invited To Share Pleasures Of Holiday Party

That enterprising group of young people organized recently as the Orange Aides, an auxiliary to the Homeopenous club, was entertained delightfully late last week, at a party in the home of the vice-president, Miss Thelma Sharp, 1402 West Sixth street. The occasion was the second social event enjoyed by this rapidly growing auxiliary.

The Sharp home was given a festive air by the use of bowls of poinsettias and holly and colorful Christmas decorations. Miss Elsie Lee Huffine, president, conducted a short business meeting during which the hostess, Miss Sharp, will advance to the vice presidency vacated by Roy Potter. The office of treasurer which she had held previously, was filled by Miss Ruth Bartlett, club advisor. Miss Phyllis Krock joined the club, which is organized especially for young people who are hard of hearing, but is open to all young people interested in plans of their handicapped friends. Miss Krock, with perfect hearing, belongs to the latter group.

In a series of games Miss Bartlett took first prize and Miss Krock received consolation. The refreshment interval followed when guests were seated at a dining table centered with poinsettias in a green bowl matching the color of the tall candles. Place cards, made by the hostess, were clever favors, for each card bore a pretty skating maid fashioned of wired crepe paper. A moulded salad course was followed by cake and hot chocolate.

Guests were surprised to learn that the party celebrated two birthday anniversaries. That of their hostess and also of Miss Bartlett to whom was presented a delicious cake, with the words "Happy Birthday" and the numerals "13" traced on its surface in merry defiance of the date upon which the anniversaries fell. Each of the individual cup cakes served bore the numerals also. Climaxing the refreshment hour was the presentation to officers of their official badges, artistic ones made by the hostess, who revealed that those for the members would soon be ready.

Miss Sharp was assisted in all details of entertaining by her mother, Mrs. S. Clayton Sharp. Their invitation list included the Misses Ruth Bartlett, Phyllis Krock, Elsie Lee Huffine, Santa Ana; Miss Alexandra Wheaton, Newport Beach; Miss Gretha Clark, Balboa Island, and Robert Weltbrecht of Orange, who will be host at a February party.

Yes, that's right, and if you doubt my word, just get some luscious shade at your dime store and hang it (very full) against the windows to be curtains, and you'll see how lovely the effect of this airy net is in window dressing.

Make tests to see what shade will best suit your room. Then measure for full length curtains or short glass-type curtains, put good hand-sewn hems in top and bottom, none at sides, but the width extra-plus. More about this idea tomorrow, a scheme for a bedroom.

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Luncheon
Apple-carrot-raisin salad with diet mayonnaise.
Two slices toasted rye bread, lightly buttered (1/4 tsp.).
Pot of tea with milk but no sugar.
Calory total—300.
One apple, one average sized carrot and a dozen small raisins make the salad. Grate apple and carrot (both raw) and mix with enough diet mayonnaise to make creamy. Put on lettuce, sprinkling the washed raisins over the top. This type of salad satisfies the eye, the appetite and the unreasoning stomach, and that's the way to cut down the fat curves, believe it or not! The nervous appetite of a hungry person will undo the work of a week's steady dieting in one eat-as-you-will meal. Think of dieting as a planned physical economy.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Turkey Oyster Stuffing
2 stale loaves of white bread, grated dry
1/2 pound butter or margarine
1 small chopped onion
1 handful parsley, minced
1 pint oysters
1 teaspoon baking powder mixed with grated bread
Salt and pepper to taste

Bread for dressing should be bought at least three days ahead. Grate it into a big bowl and add the melted butter, onion, parsley and salt, pepper and baking powder. Mix well, using your hands as if you were making pie crust. Wash the oysters, cut them in half and set over the fire with a good cupful of water and a piece of butter (extra). Bring to a good scald, drain the broth off the oysters and stir into the dressing, then lightly mix the oysters through the dressing. Put the dressing into the turkey in loose fashion, leaving room for it to swell.

Peanut Stuffing for Roast Duck
3 cups salted shelled peanuts
1 stale pullman loaf, deconstructed and grated
1/2 cup butter and bacon fat, combined
1 finely chopped onion
2 eggs beaten with 1 cup of hot milk
Salt and pepper

Run the peanuts through the coarse knife of food grinder and combine with grated bread crumbs, onion, salt, pepper and melted fat. Mix well, gradually working in the egg and hot milk. Fill the ducks loosely with the dressing. This quantity will fill two average size birds.

LOCKED AUTO DOOR SAVES JAYCEE COED

A would-be kidnaper, robber or attacker who sought to stop Marjorie Bush, 19, of 406 Eleventh street, Huntington Beach, a Santa Ana Junior college student, as she was returning home from school last night at 9:30 o'clock, was wanted by local sheriffs and police officers today.

Miss Bush told Huntington Beach officers she had just made a boulevard stop at Talbert and Harbor roads, when a man "about 30 or 35 years old," leaped on the running board of her car and tried to open the door. Fortunately, she said, she had locked the door.

"He tried to crawl over the top of the car to enter through a door on the opposite side of the car," Miss Bush related, "but I drove in such a way that he either fell or jumped off."

She intimated she had swerved the car about on the roadway in an effort to throw the man off of the car. "I don't know whether he's hurt or not," she advised officers. "It would be advisable to look for him."

The man could not be found by investigators.

Urges Wells Be Used To Conserve Available Water

ARREST YOUTH ON CHARGE OF STEALING $228

A 15-year-old student at Lathrop Junior High school, was held by juvenile authorities today, following his arrest for theft of $228 in two separate pilferings at the Seventeenth street Pharmacy, 1708 North Main street, on November 24 and Dec. 1.

According to investigation by District Attorney William Menton and Detective Lieutenant Charles Wolford, the youth looted about the drug store upon the two occasions and, while clerks were busy, reached into the safe, grabbing the money bag.

When arrested, the boy had $53 in cash on his person. He admitted the burglaries, declaring he had "blown" much of the money on trinkets and entertainment in Santa Ana, Long Beach and Los Angeles. He also admitted discarding several checks found in the money bag, including one for $50 turned in at the drug store by District Attorney Menton.

The youth had purchased among other things, speedometers for bicycles belonging to himself and a friend; a telescope and other articles pleasing to his fancy.

Officer Wolford reported that, with the boy's aid all of the checks were recovered. Edward Gorman, manager of the drug store, said approximately $125 was taken November 24, and $170, on December 1. Both thefts were committed similarly and Gorman assisted the officers in the investigation after suspecting the youth.

Suggested as a possible site for Santa Ana's proposed new armory and drill grounds, A. W. Walsh of Walsh-Lindemeyer company, asked city council last night to consider purchase of lots at the southeast corner of Edinger and Bristol streets.

INCREASED PRODUCTION URGED AS SOLUTION OF NATION'S DIFFICULTIES

Increased production at lower cost, bringing the produce within the purchasing power of all the people, was declared to be one way out of the nation's difficulties, today when Homer Chaney spoke at the weekly meeting of Rotary club, in Green Cat cafe.

Chaney, who is assistant trustee officer at the First National bank, spoke on the topic "Scarcity vs. Plenty" and condemned the administration policy of production curtailment for the purpose of elevating prices.

The plan of low cost production, Chaney said, will result in the eventual absorption, by industry, of the unemployed. During the inception of such a program, he said, every legitimate method of labor saving device, conservation of capital and labor must be resorted to if the plan succeeds. In doing this there is certain to be a lag in employment, he said. This will be only temporary and result in greater recovery and solution of the unemployed problem.

During the lag period, when industry is not on a paying basis, Chaney advocated government subsidies for private business, the same as is extended the railroads and other public utilities. This subsidy, he said, should be sufficient to guarantee five to six percent return.

The theory he advanced, according to Chaney is the Brookings institute and adapts the theory of plenty to the present system and is similar to the theory as that advocated by the Epics and similar organizations.

He declared that any restriction of production or attempts to control prices will choke the nation and its business life and predicted that both major parties, this year, will have planks in their party platforms opposing the theory of scarcity.

The theory of plenty, Chaney said, is based upon the belief that the wants of human beings can never be satisfied. The big question the nation faces is securing the money with which to satisfy these wants.

SLAYER OF HUSBAND HANGED IN PRISON

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Dec. 17.—Mrs. Elizabeth Tilford, 51, was led across the prison yard through a snow storm early today and hanged for the murder of her husband.

Mrs. Tilford poisoned her third husband, Tyrell. He died April 1. She was convicted Oct. 2 and maintained her innocence to the last.

CALLES DEGRADED BY SENATE ACTION

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 17.—President Lazaro Cardenas and his supporters adopted strong policies today to crush the influence of former president Plutarco Elias Calles, who was long the iron man behind all Mexican government leaders.

The senate by unanimous vote last night removed all powers from the executive and legislative administrations of Sonora, Sinaloa, Durango and Guanajuato states, suspected, like Calles, of trying to create difficulties for the Cardenas government. Provisional governors were named to succeed those ousted.

Then the senate unanimously agreed to ask Cardenas through the war department to degrade Calles, Gen. Jose Maria Tapia and Gen. Joaquin Amaro, ousted as director of the military academy.

HAVANA, Dec. 17.—Three men charged with complicity in the kidnaping of Nicholas Castano, multi-millionaire sugar man, were shot to death near Havana on their way from Santa Antonio, it was announced today.

The men were Rafael Ponce, Ello Estevez and Aurelio Martinez. They were in a cave in which Castano was found by two army enlisted men yesterday.

According to the police story, the kidnapers were shot by occupants of an automobile who opened fire as they sped past the car bringing them to Havana. Strangely the three corporals who were guarding the suspects in the car were not wounded, and the fact that, though kidnaping is a capital offense, the law forbids any executions until the next constitutional government takes office.

A TELEPHONE Is an all year gift for all the family

For someone in your home it will mean strength and time saved for other things. For another, a better chance to keep in touch with jobs, openings, advancement. For still another, friendships and invitations to good times. For all, greater protection and wider horizons. Yet the price of telephone service is small. May we send a representative to tell you more about it?

BANK DEPOSITORS TO GET $72,000

ANAHEIM, Dec. 17.—Depositors in the defunct Anaheim First National bank today are receiving an unexpected 20 per cent dividend on their claims.

The amount available for distribution approximates $72,000 and brings to 52 per cent the dividends to date.

J. V. Hogan, receiver, said to date that another fair sized dividend is to be expected, providing litigation now pending does not go against the receivership. He said there still is considerable property to be disposed of and that this will go into dividend benefits.

Claimants must present their claims at the receiver's headquarters, 148 East Center street, where checks are awaiting them, Hogan said.

Chicago Board of Trade

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—(UP)—December wheat displayed independent strength on the board of trade today but other positions reacted on erratic tone in the Winnipeg market.

At the close December was up 1 cent a bushel. May was up 1/4 cent and July was down 1/4 cent. Corn was 1/4 to 1/2 cent higher and rye was unchanged to 1/4 lower.

The major grain gains of about a cent a bushel early on refusal of the Liverpool and Buenos Aires markets to reflect yesterday's decline. Reports of a good continental demand for Australian and Argentine wheat also aided activity. Trading here turned fairly active, but speculative interest was small.

MAYBE IT'S MEGALOMANIA

Yes indeed, we may be over-estimating the future for real estate but we believe not. Did you ever stop to think for an instant, what orange juice canning can mean for Orange County? A representative of one of the largest canning companies in the U. S. A. tells us that success in their experimentation would cause a demand for our Valencia oranges (unprecedented) because they carry twice the juice of other oranges. 10 acres at $20,000 that we have listed will make money without the juice business as we can show you. One look may convince you.

HONEST JUDGMENT

There has been some question on the part of the opponents of the Elliott Water plan, which is to be voted on Thursday, as to whether the Orange County Flood Control engineer, M. N. Thompson, is in a position to express an impartial or purely an engineer's viewpoint on the merits on the amount of water the Elliott plan will conserve, and likewise the merits of the plan.

The insinuations are that he is in the employ of the supervisors and it naturally would be to his interest to present figures and facts and opinion that would coincide with the plan they have been presenting to the voters.

This is the human side of engineering. This human side cannot be measured by a single incident or decision.

It is an interesting part of history, however, that certainly has a great bearing on the impartiality and fearlessness and the dependability of Nick Thompson's professional advice.

It is recalled that several years ago when the supervisors were spending several thousand dollars a year in spreading water in Riverside and San Bernardino counties, Mr. Thompson was, at that time, one of the first men to take exception to the wisdom of this procedure on the part of the Orange County supervisors. He was met with considerable opposition from various quarters for his independence and lone-handed opposition. Later a group of citizens became interested and persuaded the Orange County supervisors to employ outside engineers to make a survey and give them a report as to whether spreading water in Riverside and San Bernardino counties was beneficial to Orange county. The reports made by the engineer convinced Orange county supervisors that Orange county was not only wasting its money, but was keeping the water from getting into the Orange county basin when it was being pumped for agricultural purposes from the other counties. With this record of independence in his professional duties on the part of Thompson, the engineer for water conservation of the county, would seem now, that he happens to be in accord with his employers, the supervisors, that anyone who knows his former history, should believe that his judgment is based on what is good for the county and not to be personally popular with his employers.

Inasmuch as the water question is so technical and so difficult for the layman to understand, the confidence in the decision of the water engineer is of the utmost importance. The voters should have all the information possible on this all important question in order to make an intelligent decision.

FEWER SELF-SUPPORTED PEOPLE NOW

We remarked a few days ago of our interest in trying to keep conditions such that those persons not receiving pay from the Government might live as well for the work they performed as those receiving checks from the Government.

A man jokingly remarked that those not being supported by the Government were getting fewer and fewer, that no longer was there need for concern about them as they were getting so few in number. At the time, we did not realize how rapidly people were actually being added to the Government fold.

Here are some figures, just published by the United States News, relative to the number now receiving Government checks, as compared with March, 1933:

March, 1933	2,159,835
December, 1933	5,245,500
December, 1934	7,558,228
December, 1935	9,047,956

This, on yearly basis, means that the Government dispenses $5,387,555,364 to 9,047,956 persons. This means that nearly one-fourth as many persons are on the Federal payroll as voted in the last national election. This means that more persons receive Federal pay than the total of those employed in manufacturing.

The 9,047,956 persons who receive Federal checks, are separated as follows: WPA and PWA, 2,975,000; AAA payments, 3,430,000; regular employees, 796,297; veterans' aid, 860,000; CCC, 539,000; student aid, 109,000; military, 281,654; civil pensions, 50,000, and legislative and judicial, 7,005—for a total of 9,047,956.

Huge as is this total, it does not include all those who have benefited financially from the Federal Government. It does not include all jobs in private employment, resulting from the $8,000,000,000 financed by various Government credit agencies.

Any man or woman who is interested in the future welfare of our people cannot see this tendency—to rely upon the Government with "eating up" of savings of the past—without wondering, "What will be conditions when it ends?"

HONEST POLITICIANS

Not long ago, a man challenged "anyone" to point out one honest politician. Many public officials were named in answer to his challenge but the man stood by his skepticism resolutely. A survey of convictions of public officials told him enough, he stated.

That man held the viewpoint of millions, a viewpoint originating naturally when one fails to apply the law of percentages to the total number of persons in responsible public offices. Government, like any other business, has its honest men and women as well as its dishonest ones and no more is there likely to be dishonesty in government, by percentage measurement, than in any other business. More careless inefficiency, possibly. Not more dishonesty.

The spotlight of publicity falls more quickly and certainly upon dishonesty in public office than upon dishonesty in private business because a public business is, by nature, always more spotlighted, its purpose being attendance to the public welfare.

We are quick to brand all public officials with such stigma as may fall upon the few in public office who are dishonest, quicker still to convict, mentally, the public official who may be completely honest, who may have erred or who really may be dishonest, long before a jury decides the question from the facts—providing an adverse rumor is first held up for public appraisal.

A politician, any public official, may err. So may any man in private business. A politician, any public official, may be dishonest. So may any man in private business.

Why mark your ballot on the question of a public official's character before you have studied the issues of his particular case?

Sayings Of Will Rogers

This would be a great world to dance in if we didn't have to pay the fiddler.

Prosperity this Winter is going to be enjoyed by everybody that is fortunate enough to get into the poor farm.

Twenty thousand people gathered to see twelve farmers in the world's championship corn husking. No wonder the farmer has nothing. If he had been smart enough to put these on under the guise of college athletics, hired a coach and a stadium, why then the farmer would be sitting as pretty as Notre Dame.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Although neither political party is necessarily to be judged by the views of its national committee-men, nevertheless the Republican national committee represents the external evidence of party organization and as such its meeting here today naturally gives rise to the usual pre-convention talk about candidates.

Just four years ago, a similar meeting indicated clearly that Herbert Hoover was out in front for the presidential nomination. Just so today, the same might be said of Governor Alf Landon of Kansas, whose qualifications are much more the subject of penetrating curiosity here than any other man prominently mentioned as yet.

This is not to say that the Kansas governor will win the nomination. It is early and there are other candidates in the field, and there may be "dark horses" coming. But it is fair to say that there has grown up around Mr. Landon a sort of cumulative feeling that he may be the man to lead the Republican party out of the wilderness of its despair.

The most interesting aspect of the matter is not that various Republican leaders like or dislike Mr. Landon, depending on who their favorites happen to be, but the reasons why he is favored by those who do champion his cause.

For one thing, Mr. Landon is looked upon as a great possibility for the nomination because he is the direct antithesis of Mr. Roosevelt. While the president has been a "spender" and a "borrower," Governor Landon is projected as a "saver" and an economical-minded person like Calvin Coolidge.

Some idea of the way the Republican chieftains view the coming issues may be gained from this sentiment. Indeed, one of the chief points also urged by friends of Colonel Frank Knox is that he has made an outstanding reputation in business for others as well as himself by cutting expenses, and, later, by making his own newspaper business more profitable than his predecessors.

Thus, economy, balancing of budgets, capacity to administer, these are the things most talked about by the political folks in appraising the kind of man who might be the next Republican candidate. For it is expected these will be issues with the electorate.

Now while Governor Landon is commended by those who know him best—and that extends apparently to people of all classes in Kansas—it is conceded that his acquaintance with national problems is limited. In answer to this, it is argued that Mr. Roosevelt as governor of New York, was also a novice on large economic problems of a national character and that he recognized his own weakness when he drew to his side the group who later became known as the "brain trust."

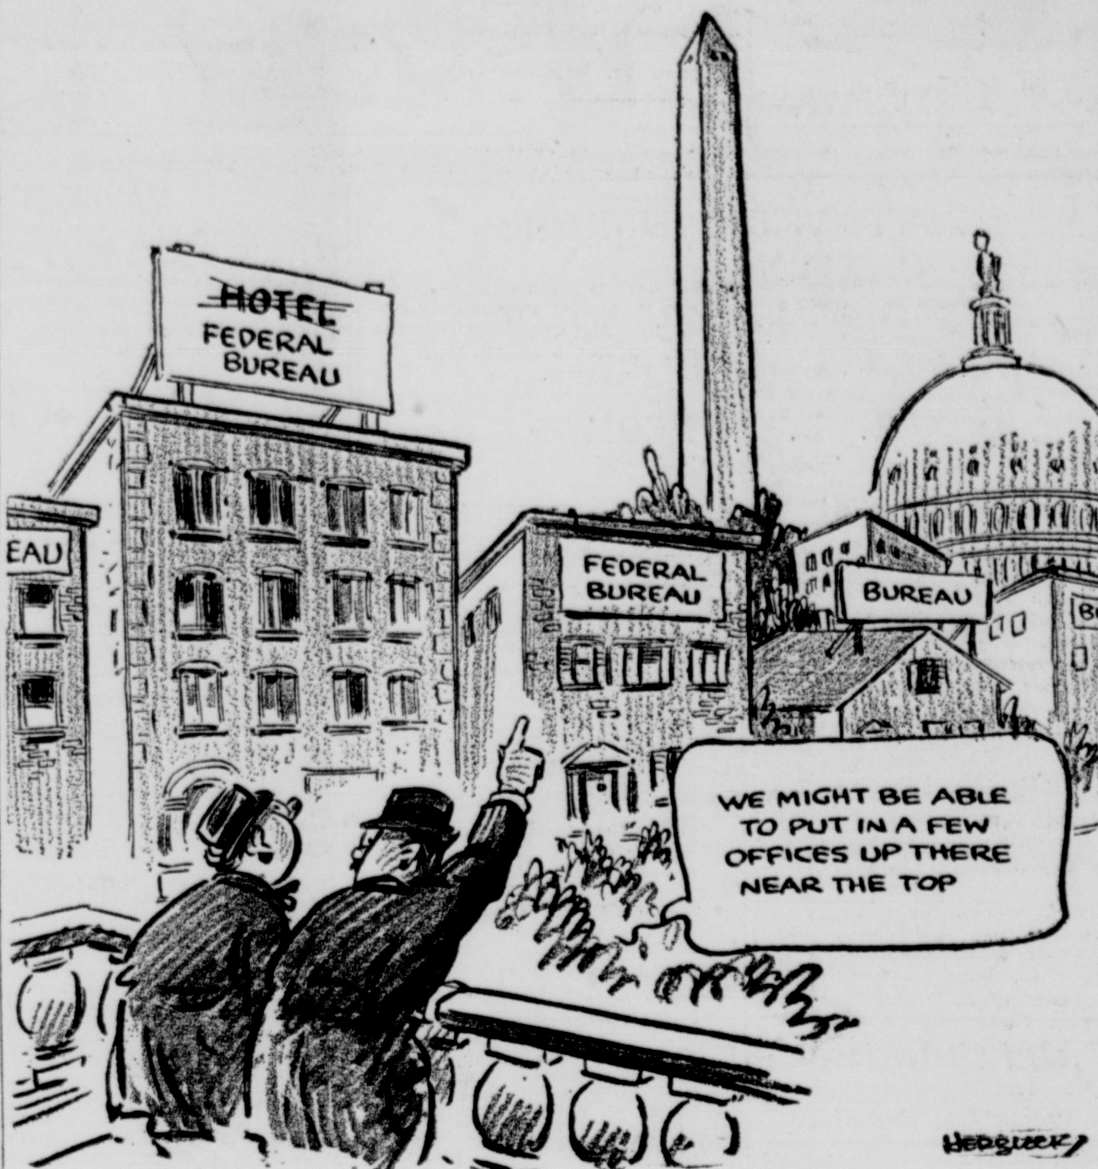

What the Republican leaders generally are going to ask is not how much Mr. Landon knows about all the multiple problems of the hour, but what he knows about fundamental principles of government and how much character he has to stand up for his own conviction without wobbling all over the lot, as so many men do when they begin playing politics or allowing their personal ambitions for future re-election to sway what otherwise might be an unpopular political step in public policy.

The most searching questions are being asked about Governor Landon, which is a good sign that a large number of Republican leaders are considering seriously his qualifications for the nomination. On paper, of course, the strongest point in his favor is that he comes from an agricultural state and the Republicans feel they must have someone in whom the agricultural states have confidence, especially if the supreme court knocks out the AAA and the farmer again looks toward Washington for aid in keeping up his income.

The Republican leaders are by no means a unit on what their agricultural platform should be, but they know, on the other hand, that it is going to be difficult for them to promise the farmer any better "rain of checks" than he is now getting. There is little emphasis as yet for the logical converse argument; namely, that the "rain of checks," if continued for special groups, may bankrupt the government, and then farmers and city folks combined will suffer. Nor is there much discussion as yet of the cost of living as an issue as between the cities and the country districts, particularly as real wages have been steadily declining because of the higher costs of food and other necessities of life.

The Farmer-Labor alliance which Dr. Tugwell has suggested as the best Democratic strategy hasn't developed as yet a counter offensive by the Republicans. Nor is there any crystallization thus far on what affirmative principles should go into the platform, though, to be sure, there are plenty of negative principles and condemnatory statements about the new deal which the Republicans, in conversation or on paper, can produce in large volume.

DISHARMONIES

Disharmonies are things, I find,
Which bother and upset the mind.
They make us shirk
Our needful work;
They trouble, tease and fret us.
They hold us in an iron grip
From which we cannot slide or slip.
We can't be we,
Because, you see,
Disharmonies won't let us.

Disharmonies we can't escape.
They have no bulk, they have no shape;
But here and there
And everywhere
They puzzle and perplex us.
They always put us on the spot;
They seem to scheme they seem to plot.
We can't control
Our very soul — — —
Our reason balks and wrecks us.

Disharmonies steal through my dreams — — —
They waken me when morning beams.
They're here and there
And every where.
In every time and season,
And I believe they'll follow me
Upon the land and on the sea,
And flit about,
And in and out
Till I have lost my reason.

WASHINGTON—"The more and more I think about things the more indignant I get," says Pete, the taxi driver. "Only this morning as soon as I got up I says to the Little Missus—that's what I call my wife—I says to her, 'Damn but I'm getting indignant.' And you know what she didn't say a thing. That shows you what a smart one she is, don't it? She wasn't like some women and said 'Whatever indignant about?' or 'You oughtn't to be indignant, or anything like that.' She just figures if I'm indignant the best thing to do is to say nothing. Believe me if all little Missus there wouldn't be so many arguments between men and their wives. That's what I say."

"Well, anyways, the thing I'm indignant about is how the New Dealers are always talking about their 'objectives.' We may make some mistakes," they say, "but we got good objectives." Yes sir, that's what they always say. They make believe like that's one thing they are certainly long on—objectives. They even got some of their opponents saying always just before they make such a criticizing statement 'As much as I admire their objectives.' Why, there was against, is such a handling of the an Englishman only the other day who said he sh'd like the New Deal's objectives but he was glad they was trying them out on this country instead of his."

"Now, what I wants to know is what is their objectives? I guess you say their objectives is the 'more abundant life' eh, just because that's what they say. Now, if you'd just stop and think about it, we've always been for the "more abundant life." I don't suppose there's ever been a politician in office who wasn't for the 'more abundant life.' Goodness knows, I'm for it and I ain't a politician. Yet the New Dealers think that just because they're for the 'more abundant life' they're different and they get a lotta people talking about their objectives.

"What makes me mad is that they don't ever think it would be a worthy objective to run the government so all the people could get jobs. Now sir, they'll do anything else in the world as good an objective as you could have. They'll do anything else for you. They'll feed you and gosh knows, nobody's complaining about that. Keeping unemployed people from starving is a duty not an accomplishment."

"They'll re-settle you or they'll rehabilitate you. Soon as they spend some more money they say they gonna make it possible for you to have an electric washing machine. They even gonna give you a security. Upon my word, I've never seen a crowd who'll give us so many things. The one thing, though, which they don't seem to ever think of, or to be downright against, is such a handling of the government that would make it possible for us to get jobs."

"Now don't get me wrong. I think it's right nice of them to have their WPA to give us jobs at $44 and such a month. But mind what I'm telling you—when these people get hep to the fact that the New Dealers are responsible for them having to stay on such jobs they're gonna get mad. 'Well, he's where you get out.'"

Our Children

MEALTIME

"Mealtime in our house is a nightmare. From the time the children sit down until they are sent from the table, they squabble and fight; fuss about their food; make a nuisance of themselves generally until their father and mother dread the whole performance. We would rather go without eating, if we could, than face another mealtime."

That means that the children have been allowed to get into bad habits. If the first breach of good table manners had been noted and the child corrected at once, if from the beginning etiquette of mealtime had been rigidly enforced, this would not have happened.

It happens to a greater or less degree in many homes, not because father and mother do not know what good table manners are, but because they have a lingering old-style notion that formal manners are "putting on airs." The answer to that is to make formal manners at mealtime the usual thing. What one is accustomed to doing cannot be artificial, and airy.

Children have to have formal teaching before they can live informally without offending other people and hurting themselves. It is necessary to teach them to sit upright lest they get into slovenly postures. There is an art in graceful carelessness that is not apparent to the casual eye. It has its beginnings in strict obedience to formal rule. The child sits up, uses his hands to hold his table service in certain set ways, eats from the side of his spoon, lays his knife just so on his plate after using it, remembers to use his napkin, all according to the rules of good form, so that when he is older he can behave at table without giving his conduct a thought. This requires careful teaching from the beginning.

If a child is taught to think about the other people at table he cannot get into the habit of disputing, talking down, even shouting at table. The oldest one, because of a longer term of training, carries more responsibility than the others. He sets the example. Of course nobody is to bring up a controversial subject at the table. Nobody is to criticize his food unfavorably. Nobody talks with his mouth full, nor when another is talking. The children watch the faces of father and mother, sisters and brothers, to make certain of maintaining the right tone, saying the pleasant thing, doing the kindly thing. When perfectly healthy children wrangle at the table their training is at fault. Allowing children might complain at the table, but healthy children, never. The ailing one should be given their meals on a tray in their own rooms to avoid the strain of keeping up appearances at table.

The best way to teach good table manners, and what is of even more importance—a good table manner—is by example. If the children hear and see only what is pleasant, well-mannered, thoughtful and kindly behavior in their elders, they will seldom make a mistake. Begin early to set the atmosphere, train each child as he comes along to that standard, and there can be little trouble.
